

Chapter 1 : The loyalty of dogs | Cesar's Way

The best leaders and some of the most influential people (and Theodore Roosevelt is one of the best leaders and one of the most influential people to have lived) were not those who caused commotions, who fought with people or disregarded people; but were people who were friendly to those around them.

Get Full Essay Get access to this section to get all help you need with your essay and educational issues. Dogs are always loyal, offering unconditional love and protection. They make our lives healthier by convincing us to stay active, because they are always willing to play. Its even proven that owning a pet, whether its a dog or cat can actually lower your blood pressure by keeping you calmer and happier. They can always manage to put a smile on your face, no matter what mood youre in. Seeing-Eye dogs are the eyes of blind people. They have to train from the time they are puppies and before they go to live with a blind person, they are trained for at least a month with them. It is very difficult to train seeing-eye dogs. They must be good in everything they do. Many blind people want to get seeing-eye-dogs, but the demand for them is greater than the supply. Seeing-eye dogs must keep their masters safe. It is more important for seeing-eye-dogs to work than to play. The most common choices for seeing-eye dogs are German Shepherds, Labradors, Labradoodles, and Poodles. Canine companions are dogs that help people with physical disabilities. They are trained to answer the telephone, open doors, and pick up anything their owner drops from the remote to a pencil. Some are used as therapy dogs and taken into the hospital to help put a smile on someones face. A few are trained to tell their owner when the phone is ringing for if they are deaf and unable to hear it. Others can be trained to sense when their owner is about to have a seizure so that they can get to a safe place and not hurt themselves. Canine companions can do many things for many different people depending on their disability. Search and Rescue dogs are everywhere. They work on the police force to help bring down crime, they work in natural disasters to help find people after an earthquake or avalanche and they even helped us during the war to find bombs. With a dogs amazing sense of smell, nothing gets past them. They can smell the drugs being smuggled onto a plane and a human buried five feet under snow with no trace that they were ever there. Newfoundlands and Labrador Retrievers are the most common choice when it comes to finding someone buried in the snow or rescuing someone out in the water. In conclusion, dogs have been there for us and helped us to save many lives throughout the world. They comfort us when we are in need and are smart enough to help us with things around the house. Even being able to tell if we might have something wrong with us, dogs can somehow sense it. They say both dogs and babies are very sensitive, they can pick up on every emotion youre feeling from being mad to happy. Babies cry when they know something is wrong with you, but dogs just want to be next to you, licking your face, and making you feel better. Dogs truly are mans best friend. More essays like this:

Chapter 2 : A Man's Best Friend « Rachel | This I Believe

The dog-wolf similarity is significant to the meaning behind the phrase "dog's are a man's best friend." Dogs share 99% of their DNA with wolves. However, unlike wolves, dogs exude a sense of warmth to other dogs and humans that differs greatly from a wolf's reaction to others.

Bernie Parent For Philly. No matter the situation, your dog is happy to see you. You are greeted with the same enthusiasm each and every time you walk in that door. A dog has the ability to live in the present moment. In the presence of a dog, somehow, nothing else matters. A dog is handing out pure love, sparing no expense, and asking absolutely nothing in return. Many of us have lost touch with this all-important instinctual part of who we are. By paying attention to nonverbal cues such as body language and energy, we can learn more about our friends, our loved ones, and ourselves. Imagine what our world would be like if we dealt with all conflicts before they escalated out of control. Holding onto negative feelings tends to make them multiply and prevent us from moving forward. When dogs are bored, they develop issues ranging from anxiety to aggression. We all have an innate need to work for food and water. Ask yourself how you can contribute more to your job, your family, and the world around you. One night, the Flyers had a Saturday night game in St. Louis, and we got our asses kicked. We chartered a plane home and got back at 3 a. I arrived at my house and made my way upstairs to the bedroom. At the time, I had the pound mastiff Gus. I was preparing to get into bed as I noticed Gus sleeping on my side with his back to my wife. He just stared back at me. We got our asses kicked. Get off the bed. At that point, my wife had to get up and pull him off the bed because there was no way I was going to continue to disturb him. A little while after I got comfortable, he decided to sneak as quietly and gently as a pound dog could possibly sneak back in between us. We had Gus and our little 6-pound, snowball bichon frise at the same time – and of course, both of them slept in bed with us. One night, we heard a noise downstairs. The bichon ran like hell right downstairs to check out the scene, followed by my wife. We stayed in bed. The girls had it covered. Tinkerbelle, my German shepherd, would take a nap with me before every home game. It was our routine, our ritual. It was comforting and soothing. Each and every dog that I brought into my home was unique, had its very own personality, and affected my life profoundly. They are so fun. For a dog, every morning is Christmas morning. Every walk is the best walk, every meal is the best meal, and every game is the best game. Take time every day to celebrate the many gifts that are hidden in the ordinary events of your own life.

Chapter 3 : A Dog is a Man's Best Friend - Deep English

A dog is a man's best friend? Well, if the animal's popularity is anything to go by, perhaps that's true; according to the American Kennel Club, there are more pet dogs in the USA than there are people in Britain.

Not cats, not hamsters, not lizzardsâ€”DOGS! For me it is simple, dogs are just awesome! Once you have a dog, your lifestyle will definitely change. No longer will you be able to go to the toilet unaccompanied and there will be a furry little creature that loves you unconditionally. But when my dog is annoyed with me, it is only for a very short time. In fact, as soon as I ask him who is a good boy and throw him his favourite tennis ball in the back-yard, he thinks I am the best thing since BBQ flavored doggy treats! They are loyal like few other If you are good to a dog, they will be good to you. When I was little I picked up a little puppy in the road that someone had abandoned. They will die for you When a dog thinks you are in danger, they will do anything to protect you. Even if it means they themselves are in danger. There are a few amazing stories, but one of my favorites is the story of a little Chihuahua that saved a one year-old child from a big rattle snake, and even got bitten in the process by the snake. They know when you need some TLC When you had a really bad day and need some TLC, your dog will be right there by your side ready to lick your face and give you all the cuddles you can ever need! That is because they are so adept at reading our body language and voice tone. They instinctively know when we are sad or even scared. They are always happy to see you Few things perk me up as much as when I get home and there is a little pooch jumping up and down glad to see you. Heck, even in the mornings when I get up from bed my dog is sitting outside my room waiting for me, and demands I give him a quick cuddle before moving further. The best way to start a day! Even if it is just throwing the ball around for them, it is way better than just sitting in front of the TV all day letting life go by you. Since having my dog, I am much more consistent in going out for a walk or a jog with my dog as I know he relies on me to get his daily exercise. They are smart I am convinced that my dog is smarter than some people I know! Depending on what breed dog you have, dogs are generally very intelligent animals that can learn a lot! In fact I read somewhere that dogs can learn up to wordsâ€”that is basically the vocabulary of a 2 year-old! A Pug and a Boston Terrier. I was sitting in the back-yard giving them both some attention and head-pats, when the little Pug who is a little diva that demands constant attention runs off, go gets a ball and brings it to me. Of course I assume she wants me to throw it for her to go retrieve it. I throw the ball and the Boston Terrier, predictably, runs after it. But the Pug stays right where she is and now gets ALL the attention instead of having to share it with the Boston Terrier. So she was smart enough to come up with a sneaky plan to get the Boston Terrier away so she can get all the cuddles. She is an evil genius. Wrapping Up Cats are cute, hamsters are furry and lizzards areâ€”errrrmmâ€”nevermind. But dogs are the best. For me it is a simple equation: I hope you enjoyed this article! Now go and give you dog a much appreciated cuddle! This article was provided by Manomics.

Chapter 4 : Is a dog really a man's best friend? | HowStuffWorks

Dog is Man's best friend " Man's best friend " is a common phrase about domestic dogs, referring to their millennia-long history of close relations, loyalty, and companionship with humans. The first recorded use of a related phrase is by Frederick the Great of Prussia.

Please help improve it by removing unnecessary details and making it more concise. As she proceeds back to work, an animal assailant attacks and kills her before being sedated by Dr. Jarret. Later, Lori arrives at EMAX, breaks into the laboratory, films the various animals that are being experimented on, and frees a Tibetan Mastiff named Max before escaping with him. Jarret immediately goes to the police and reports that his dog has been stolen. Later that day, a mugger Thomas Rosales, Jr. Unaware that Max killed the mugger, Lori develops a bond with him, much to the disapproval of her boyfriend Perry Fredric Lehne , who insists Max must stay in the backyard. However, Max can understand human conversations and becomes protective of Lori. Jarret is questioned by the police about Max and reveals that Max is a genetically altered dog, spliced with the DNA of various other animals such as big cats , snakes , chameleons , and birds of prey , giving him enhanced strength, speed, and senses. All of these incidents go unnoticed by Lori. Realizing Max is trying to kill him, Perry tries to poison Max, but Max smells the poison in the meat and chases Perry out of the house. She takes him to a junkyard and leaves him with the owner Ray William Sanderson , who assures her that Max will be taken to a ranch in a few days. However, when Lori leaves, Ray chains Max to the wall and beats him with a shovel. When Max pulls loose from his chain, Ray burns his face with a blow torch but is quickly overpowered and killed. The police, after discovering the dead mugger and having Dr. Jarret clarify that it was Max who killed him, now intend to stop Max at any cost. Max then flees the house and evades the cops and an animal control unit by utilizing his genetic gifts. Max returns and kills the officers watching the house, which Lori soon discovers. Jarret shoots Max with a shotgun before being knocked onto a large electrical cage, which kills him. Lance Henriksen as Dr. Production[edit] At least five different dogs were used in filming. Kevin Yagher built the Max puppets as well as created the make-up special effects. Additional tag lines for the film include "Companion. Film critic Leonard Maltin gave it a moderately positive two-and-a-half-star review, calling it "derivative, but fun.

Chapter 5 : Dogs-Man's Best Friend | Essay Example

A dog is a man's best friend definition at www.nxgvision.com, a free online dictionary with pronunciation, synonyms and translation. Look it up now! A dog is a man's best friend | Define A dog is a man's best friend at www.nxgvision.com

Frequently asked questions about the This I Believe project, educational opportunities and more Click here to learn more. Not only do dogs possess all of the qualities we look for in a companion, but they also lack those qualities and habits that we often find irritating in our friends and family. Dogs are loyal, caring, and enthusiastic. They are not offended easily, rude or mean as people can often be. I believe that at some time in their life, everyone should experience the joy of owning a dog. A dog companion has all the same benefits as a human companion without the constant work and effort required for human interaction. In fact, in many instances I find that my dog gives me a reason to get out of the house, thus motivating me to work out. Dogs are always willing to go on an adventure with you, whether it be going to the lake for a day or walking down your driveway to get your mail. They are always more than happy to tag along with you, making your chores and daily outings a little more pleasant. It is an instant self-esteem boost to know that someone was missing me while I was gone. They are the most loyal and patient companions a person could ask for. I never had to worry about her running away, she would quietly lay in the grass beneath a tree and wait until I was done. The loyalty you find in a dog is incomparable to that of anyone else, a bond is created that is both genuine and unique. It is something that cannot be found in other pets or humans for that matter. Like humans, dogs have a wide variety of personalities. The mutual love between an owner and a dog is truly special and everyone should get the chance to experience the unique bond that comes with living with a canine companion. Donate If you enjoyed this essay, please consider making a tax-deductible contribution to This I Believe, Inc. Please contact This I Believe, Inc. Seifert and his neighbors discovered that voting was the best tool they had to improve their community. Click here to read his essay. What Students Believe Throughout the school year, young people around the world write statements of belief as a classroom exercise. Click here to read a sampling of what young people believe.

Chapter 6 : 'Man's best friend' - the meaning and origin of this phrase

Dogs. There's a reason we call them man's best friend. We can learn so many things from a dog's behavior, personality, demeanor, resiliency, and most importantly, the willingness to provide.

A dog is the only thing on earth that loves you more than he loves himself. Josh Billings The most affectionate creature in the world is a wet dog. Their only fault, really. Corey Ford Dogs are not our whole life, but they make our lives whole. Roger Caras A person who has never owned a dog has missed a wonderful part of life. Bob Barker Dogs are miracles with paws. Susan Kennedy No matter how little money and how few possessions you own, having a dog makes you rich. Unknown by AboutDogsAndPaws My advice to any diplomat who wants to have good press is to have two or three kids and a dog. Carl Rowan We give dogs time we can spare, space we can spare and love we can spare. And in return, dogs give us their all. Facklam He is your friend, your partner, your defender, your dog. You are his life, his love, his leader. He will be yours, faithful and true, to the last beat of his heart. Unknown To err is human, to forgive canine. Unknown Dogs love their friends and bite their enemies, quite unlike people, who are incapable of pure love and always have to mix love and hate. Sigmund Freud If you pick up a starving dog and make him prosperous, he will not bite you. This is the principal difference between a dog and a man. Mark Twain The dog was created specially for children. He is the god of frolic. Henry Ward Beecher My little dog - a heartbeat at my feet. Edith Wharton Dogs laugh, but they laugh with their tails.

Chapter 7 : Untitled Document

Recently a dog named Capitan, has shown us why dogs are a symbol of loyalty and friendship in many countries. Have you ever heard the expression, "A Dog is a man's best friend." Dogs and humans have lived together and had a special connection that dates back 15, years.

Argos The Unwavering One of the very first favorable mentions of dogs in historical records or literature is an 8th Century B. When Odysseus returned he was heartbroken to find what was only a shell of the dog he left behind. Because of the hoard of suitors moving in on his wife, Odysseus had to remain disguised as a beggar. While he was able to fool all of the people from his past, there was no fooling his beloved best friend. Argos had been waiting all of those years to see the safe return of his master and, when he finally did, he was too weak to stand. He did, however, manage to drop his ears and wag his tail. He let slip a single tear, entered his hall, and with that Argos died. Dharma In The Himalayas The Mahabharata, one of the two major Sanskrit epics of Ancient India, includes a story in which five brothers known as the Pandavas renounce all of their worldly possessions and embark on a pilgrimage across India, into the Himalayas, and onward towards Heaven on Mount Sumeru. Just as the brothers were leaving their kingdom, they were joined by a stray dog who would remain with them throughout their journey. The only brother to reach the peak was Yudhishtira because he was free from sin. As Yudhishtira prepared himself to enter Heaven, Indra told him he must abandon the dog. This symbolized the old adage that dharma will follow you until the end. These stories, while amazing, were definitely not the norm. The earliest proverbs mentioning dogs did not refer to them as friendly or loyal, but rather vicious and ravenous. So when did popular opinion change and people start regarding dogs as champions of friendship and devotion? Over time, what we once viewed as wild animals became our pals. We suspect it probably had something to do with all the hours those hardworking dogs were putting in. The most famous usage, however, and the instance which many claim coined the phrase, would have to be the heartbreaking tale of Old Drum. Burden heard the gunshot and called his dogs in, they all came runningâ€¦ all except for his favorite. He ventured next door but the neighbor, Leonidas Hornsby, denied having ever seen Old Drum. The legacy of the case is two-fold: Vest in his closing statement, The Eulogy of the Dog: The best friend a man has in this world may turn against him and become his enemy. His son or daughter that he has reared with loving care may prove ungrateful. Those who are nearest and dearest to us, those whom we trust with our happiness and our good name, may become traitors to their faith. The money that a man has, he may lose. It flies away from him, perhaps when he needs it the most. The people who are prone to fall on their knees to do us honor when success is with us may be the first to throw the stone of malice when failure settles its cloud upon our heads. The one absolutely unselfish friend that a man can have in this selfish world, the one that never deserts him and the one that never proves ungrateful or treacherous is his dog. Gentlemen of the jury: He will kiss the hand that has no food to offer, he will lick the wounds and sores that come in encounters with the roughness of the world. He guards the sleep of his pauper master as if he were a prince. When all other friends desert, he remains. When riches take wings and reputation falls to pieces, he is as constant in his love as the sun in its journey through the heavens. If fortune drives the master forth an outcast in the world, friendless and homeless, the faithful dog asks no higher privilege than that of accompanying him to guard against danger, to fight against his enemies, and when the last scene of all comes, and death takes the master in its embrace and his body is laid away in the cold ground, no matter if all other friends pursue their way, there by his graveside will the noble dog be found, his head between his paws, his eyes sad but open in alert watchfulness, faithful and true even to death.

Chapter 8 : How Dogs Became Man's Best Friend?

One breed of dog is especially prized for its fierce loyalty. The Akita is a fluffy dog that favors its wolf ancestors, with pointed ears that stand on end, a slightly scrunched face, and a tail that curls in a loop back toward its body.

Recently a dog named Capitan, has shown us why Dogs are a symbol of loyalty and friendship in many countries. In , Capitan was adopted by a man named Guzman in Argentina. Guzman got Capitan as a gift for his son Damian. In Guzman died. Soon after, Capitan ran away from home. They tried to bring the dog home many times, but each time Capitan would run away again and return to the cemetery. For 9 years, he has lived at the cemetery and is taken care of by the cemetery staff. This is similar to the story of Hachiko , a dog who was also loyal to his owner, even long after his death. In , Hachiko was adopted by his owner, a man named Ueno, who was a university professor. Every day Hachiko would wait at Shibuya station, for Professor Ueno to return home from his job at the University of Tokyo. In , Professor Ueno died, but Hachiko kept returning every day at 4: The station staff took care of Hachiko, but every day he would go out to the train tracks at the same time to look for Professor Ueno coming home. They made a statue in front of Shibuya station and to this day, he is still a Japanese symbol of loyalty. Have you ever had a close connection to an animal or thought of an animal as part of your family? These short listening lessons are completely free. All we ask is that you leave a comment and tell us what you think. So help us out and leave a comment now. Hearing your opinions helps us choose better topics in the future. Click to Read Comments How to use this lesson to improve your English listening How to improve your listening Start with the slow speed lesson. Listen only the first few times. Listen again while reading. You can use the video buttons above or the blue read transcript button below. Use the vocabulary button to the left to learn new words. Challenge yourself with the normal speed and the fast speed. How to use this lesson to improve your English speaking How to improve your speaking The lesson on this page is only a listening lesson, but we do have lots of speaking lessons. If you want to improve your speaking, listening is not enough. You need to speak a lot and do it daily. It uses a speaking story technique that trains you to speak quickly without thinking. Click here to learn more.

Chapter 9 : There's a reason we call dogs man's best friend - Philly

Dog is man's best friend made by Frederick, King of Prussia in The earliest citation in the US is traced to a poem printed in the The New-York Literary Journal, Volume 4, The faithful dog - why should I strive.