Chapter 2 : Ashford, Surrey - Wikipedia

The Ashford at Stone Ridge is a Dangerous Place to Live and Is Overpriced There is crime at Ashford at Stone Ridge. There is an intruder in the attic of Building #5 and management refuses to get him/her out.

Turn left; your new home is on the right. The staff was amazing when it was managed under Ventron, however The staff was amazing when it was managed under Ventron, however I feel like the new management just does not care about the tenants nor the neighborhood well being. The price is a bit high for the size, but we kind of needed this last minute and they were first time renters friendly. I am no longer comfortable sleeping in my own home. This was never a problem before and we have been here almost a year. All we wanted was for them to fix the problem by bombing the apartment and all they did was sprayed and I still see the bugs. I am not angry I am just disappointed and I just want them to fix the problem. We pay way too much for this: I am thinking about just moving somewhere else, especially if this problem persist. Other than the roaches, the neighborhood is good. Dawn and her staff are awesome! Very professional, they really care about their residents, and have really made a big Dawn for all you do to keep us happy at Ashford Stoneridge! The office never contacted me all they did was send the maintenance man The office never contacted me all they did was send the maintenance man to clean the mold and paint over it in which it came back through. I had to ask to move out the apt due to getting sick from the mold. I was told on May 9 that my lease was being terminated on May On top of the fact mold continues to grow in my apt. I originally turned in my 60 day notice and only stayed because the issues I reported of bad kids in the neighborhood would be handled. Which it has not. Kids pull the firealarms almost everyday. I live beside the park. They shut off the breakers to the apts. Wishing I stuck with my original plans. This intruder is there a There is crime at Ashford at Stone Ridge. This intruder is there all night stomping and sending hot fumes into my apartment. The apartments are overpriced for the area. The median income is 27, yet a two bedroom is over a month?!

Chapter 3 : Ashford - Halquist Stone

We offer a diverse line of stone products including the Ashford Limestone Landmark Stone. Find a local distributor in your area and contact us today.

Ashford is part of the legacy of one of its most important historical figures – St. Ita. She obtained some land from a generous local chieftain, upon which she built a Church and famous school. Her feast day, 15th January is much celebrated on an annual basis. The tradition of education started by Ita has continued to this day with a Montessori school and national school in the village. The Montessori school stands on the site of a former R. A further imposing landmark on the western side of Ashford, on the road to Abbeyfeale, is Glenquin Castle, built by the O Hallinans in the 11th century. The castle is in excellent structural repair. The village Church, again called after St. Ita, was built in 1840. At one time a Protestant Church existed on the western end of the village. There is no trace of it today. On the hillside a local Mass Rock exists. Isolated rural locations such as the example in Ashford were chosen to hold Catholic religious ceremonies in the 17th and 18th centuries. Mass is still celebrated annually at the Mass Rock. A plaque was erected as a permanent memorial to those who so valued their faith in times of adversity. There was also a Mass Path in the area called the Cobs Road that was used in the past for people to walk to Mass. Mass goers tied their horses at the top of the path and walked down to the church hence the name of the pathway. The Cobs road forms part of these walking trails today. Kantoher creamery was a major source of income for the parish as an outlet for the primary produce of the parish – milk. A poultry plant operated from Kantoher for a significant period of time until its closure in 1980. Rowls House, in the middle of the Mullaghareirks, built by Arthur Langford in the second half of the 19th century became the office of the forester. Today many of the original trees have been harvested but the forestry is still an extremely busy place and a haven for many types of flora and fauna. The mountains form a special protection area for the hen harrier, an endangered bird of prey. The mountains have also provided fuel for much of the parish for many years in the form of turf which is harvested annually. Ashford in As with all towns and villages at the time, there was a broad range of occupations within the population of Ashford. Three of the townlands in the census make up the village of Ashford as we know it today. These are Clooncon, Mauricetown and Gortnaclohy. There was a broad range of craftsmen recorded in the census including a harness maker, a shoe-maker, 3 shop-keepers, 4 national school teachers, a land surveyor, 5 seamstresses, a carpenter, a stonebreaker, 2 coopers, 3 creamery workers, a merchant tailor, a postman and a publican. Ashford today The parish of Killeedy has grown into a thriving community with a number of businesses, voluntary community organisations, traditional music and sports clubs. Walk the Broadford Ashford Walking Trails and discover this majestic landscape of rolling hills, open farmland and forest paths. Enjoy the flora and fauna and historical points of interest. Visit the historical Mass Rock in Ashford and the nearby Glenquin Castle Broadford arboretum is not to be missed which includes twenty six native species of trees. Let your holiday coincide with a local festival. Climb Knockfierna and pass the deserted famine cottages as you ascend. Fit in a local Gaelic hurling or football match or play your own game of golf in Adare, Charleville or Newcastle West. The children will love the new playground in Broadford.
