Much like the first two sites, ExtraTorrent too has a great e-book collection, but mostly fiction. Aside from e-books, these kind of torrent sites also give users access to other type of media such a movies and TV shows. Note that domain of ExtraTorrent gets changed regularly. You can check ExtraTorrent Proxy sites in this article. In spite of being closed down multiple times, the site still continues to operate in full swing. Moreover, it has an impressive list of categories for easy browsing; a feature that lacks on the torrent sites mentioned above. You can even search for books as per their author, title, or subject. As of now, there are more than 4,00, books, and that is huge! Since this site is dedicated to e-books, its a brilliant option for avid readers. FreeBookSpot is another torrent site that caters specifically to e-book consumers. It has over 90 categories belonging to a horde of genres including engineering, fiction, architecture, astronomy, audio books, computers, DIY, hardware, graphics, psychology, etc. Though it does have a decent catalogue of fiction titles, it is more popular for non-fiction and educational books. It currently has only about 50, titles in its library. That said, it is one of the fastest growing e-book torrenting site that allows users to download at no cost whatsoever. The site is quite straightforward and runs pretty smoothly. E-Books Directory has an even smaller library with only 10, books in its database. You can read the book online in two ways. The Read online default option displays only the unformatted text of the book. Plus there is a left sidebar visible all the time. It displays all elements and all formatting, so you will be able to see the original cover of the book, as well as illustrations inside. You will also be able to navigate using the table of content or click on hyperlinks inside the file. Ebooks from Project Gutenberg are extremely well prepared. Using an html format to read them online is a very good idea. Once you open the file, you have the simple full-screen view that you can scroll through. The is one more benefit. The file is searchable. Below there are screenshots of two reading options from Project Gutenberg.

Internet Archive Internet Archive, founded in , is a non-profit organization offering free access to digital or digitized content: The section can be reached at this link: Use the search box in the top left corner to find the book. You can sort the results by relevance, rating, download count, and the date of adding the item to the catalog. To read the book, just click on the arrows in the bottom bar of the image of the opened book. You can enter full screen by clicking on the fullscreen link underneath. The online viewer presents the scanned pages of the book, what brings an extra flavor to reading. There are many ways to go through the content of the book, including one-page view, and zooming. Use the search bar in the top right corner to find a word. All found instances will be marked in the progress bar at the bottom. One of the most amazing things on Internet Archive is the text-to-speech function. You can turn it on by clicking on the speaker icon in the top right corner of the book viewer.

Open Library You can find exactly the same online book reader tool on another site: You can search inside 2 million titles. A Read icon is shown next to the title. Clicking on mobi or pdf link will immediately download the book to your computer.

Google Books A huge collection of books that Google scanned and turned into viewable files is now available on Google. The homepage of Google Books is actually a search box. More importantly, Google will prompt you to check out Google Play “ their online ebookstore. To stay in the Google Books project, use the search box on the left side, as shown in the screenshot below. Not all books can be fully previewed, but you can narrow search results to those that are. For the avid readers among us, selling books online is a great way to make some extra cash. But besides the few favorites that you love and perhaps go back to from time to time, the rest of these books are just gathering dust. Join InboxDollars for free. InboxDollars pays you to watch videos, search, shop, take surveys, and more. You could even use that cash to buy new books to read! But where should you sell your books? What are the best places to sell used books? Can you get more money if you sell your old books in person in a store near you? As far as getting the most money for used books go, I personally think you are better off doing it online through book buy back sites. They have less overhead so they usually have much more room when it comes paying more for the same books. Now, when it comes to selling books on the internet, eBay and Amazon are often the obvious choices. There are far better options! There are many sites where they buy the books from you directly. You just tell them the name of your book, they give you a price, and if you agree, they buy it. There are no listing items, waiting for buyers to show up, and none of that stuff. Most of the sites on this list are the kind book buyback sites that you can sell your books directly to. With that said, here are the 15 best places to sell your books online for cash: I love this website! Need Extra Cash for Free? If you like getting paid for surveys, and are going to join only one site, I would recommend Ipsos-iSay. Ipsos is the most fun and well-paying panel. Give it a try to see how you like it. It is free anyway! You simply enter the ISBN of the book, then BookScouter searches over 40 different buyer sites to find the ones that will pay the highest amount for your book. They are especially well known for textbooks type of transactions. Cash4Books Cash4Books operate differently from the above-mentioned site. Instead of creating a marketplace to make your used books available to potential buyers, they will buy them directly from you. They have to meet certain conditions. To find out if your book meets their criteria, simply enter the ISBN of the book in the provided search box and hit enter. You are then given an offer for the book assuming they want it. Enter the ISBN and get an instant quote. They also have a set of standards for the kind of books they buy. Incomplete sets volume 1 of a 2 book set etcâ€¦ Encyclopedia Sets They do buy textbooks as well except the following kind: If you have a lot of books, it can get tedious to enter one ISBNs, hit enter, get a price, then go through the whole thing over and over again for every single book. They also have apps that make it extremely easy to sell your books. Instead of entering ISBN s , you simply scan it with the app. This can speed things up immensely. What separates this one from most of the other sites is that they also have physical locations. So you can sell your book through a local bookstore. Though they only have a few stores four of which are in Portland, Oregon, and one in nearby Beaverton. Their online prices differ from in store prices. And what they buy directly in the store depends on their current inventory and needs. But online, they buy almost any book as long as it meets their conditions. They also give you an instant quote after you enter the ISBN. SellBackBooks Another site that makes it extremely easy to sell your textbooks or any other kind of books for that matter. They operate pretty similarly to most other sites mentioned here. They do however offer ACH Direct deposit which according to the site gets you the money fast. You can enter 10 ISBN at a time. Again, all it takes is entering the ISBN, getting an instant quote, and taking it from there. Bookbyte Bookbyte has been around since , mainly focusing on helping college students buy, sell and rent textbooks cheaply. All you need is either the title of the textbook or the ISBN. Once they get the book s you get paid via Check or PayPal, your choice. RentBooks Again, very similar to other sites where you simply enter the ISBN number, the name of the author or the book, get a price, print a shipping label, send the book in, get paid. As you know, book prices go up and down like crazy. But once they give you a quote it will stay the same for 30 days no matter how much lower or higher the price goes. You can choose to get paid either via PayPal or Check. That said, Amazon is a trusted platform with hundreds of thousands of potential buyers. So you may have a much better chance of selling your book faster than any other place. And even though generally books may be sold for less, this is Amazon after all. As a rule of thumb, I would only list books in mint conditions on Amazon. Again, the reason I included Half. Finding buyers for used books is hard. And there comes a time when you just get tired of trying to sell the damn book. You just want to get rid of it and get whatever amount you can out of it. For those times, this is the place to sell your books. Blue Rectangle is like these book buying websites mentioned earlier, but with even more flexibility. You still need to check if they want your book in the first place. The rest of the process is similar. They also offer check or PayPal payments. Their range is more diverse, from fictional to non-fictional, religious books to textbooks, self-help books to travel books, and much more. They also cover the shipping costs. Paid via PayPal or Check. You can also sell movies, games, and DVDs here. This website is designed for book owners to exchange their books. You list your books that you are ready to swap and wait for an interested buyer. You will get a credit after you send that particular book out to that buyer. You can use the credit you earned to get a free book put up by other sellers. The website has a reputation associated to buying used textbooks for the past 10 years. It is much heralded for its fair pricing policy, free shipping, and fast payment. In addition to used textbooks, they also buy new textbooks at special prices. Got comic books you want to sell? Sell on Craigslist of comic books! This awesome comic book classified has been around since It has been featured on tons of sites. This is one of those sites where you can sell book worth a few dollars to books worth hundreds and even thousands of dollars. Final words As you can see, there are tons of places to sell books. I personally prefer using sites like BookScouter because you can quickly get the best price out of tons of book buyback sites. They have tons of well-paying surveys. Discussion Alison says Thanks for this list of book buyback options. I use Chegg and Valore Books as well and think they are pretty good. Valore often has a highest offer guarantee which is nice. I had not heard of several listed here however so it is definitely helpful info! Satrap says You are very welcome Alison. I am really glad you find it helpful. Yes, Book Scouter is one of my favorite since it does the same thing as BigWords- comparing and letting you know which site pays the most for your books. James Hoodie says Hey man great article I really liked it. I have also used Book Scouter in the past but recently I have been using Bonavendi.
