Stupid opening riccibilotta 3 July A teenage girl hitchhikes to school. A middle aged man gives her a ride. He takes a turn away from the school, the girl gets angry. The she walks away, in the middle of the alley as if nothing happens. Who would do this?? Who would tell someone they are going to the police like she did?? She turns around, sees the car coming at her, and just stands there. No feeling bad here, just laughter about how stupid this scene was. The rest of the episode improves, but not by much. I loved the show, but this episode gets my lowest rating. Was this review helpful? Sign in to vote. A teenage girl is hitchhiking and the old guy who picks her up does NOT drive to the school where she wants to go. Instead he goes down some alley. No problem--all this seems possible. But, then she walks directly in front of the car and stands there--until, surprise, surprise, the guy runs her down!! Who thought this scene made any sense?! She escapes from a sicko and then walk directly in front of the car? And, when there are lots of places to move to in order to avoid this car barreling down on her, she just stands there waiting to be killed?!?!?! Sadly, after a horrible opening, the show only gets worse! Does it get worse? Talk about being irresponsible--feeding the public this sort of bilge when there are no critical scientific studies that show that these folks are of any value to police. This episode is ample proof that by season eight, "Quincy" was moribund and bereft of new ideas. Further proof is marrying off the doctor a couple episodes later--with the writers trying ANYTHING to push some life into a show that should have probably ended a season or two earlier. By the way, as I watched this re-run, my daughter kept asking me why I was watching such a dumb show. And, I sure had a hard time justifying sticking with this particular one.

These are the words of him who is holy and true, who holds the key of David. What he opens no one can shut, and what he shuts no one can open. I know your deeds. See, I have placed before you an open door that no one can shut. I know that you have little strength, yet you have kept my word and have not denied my name. I will make those who are of the synagogue of Satan, who claim to be Jews though they are not, but are liars--I will make them come and fall down at your feet and acknowledge that I have loved you. Since you have kept my command to endure patiently, I will also keep you from the hour of trial that is going to come upon the whole world to test those who live on the earth. I am coming soon. Hold on to what you have, so that no one will take your crown. Him who overcomes I will make a pillar in the temple of my God. Never again will he leave it. I will write on him the name of my God and the name of the city of my God, the new Jerusalem, which is coming down out of heaven from my God; and I will also write on him my new name. He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches. God has opened a door for the church. A door of opportunity. A chance to do something greater than yourself. God opened doors for the apostle Paul. Paul continued to believe God for opened doors. For everyone who asks receives; he who seeks finds; and to him who knocks, the door will be opened. God promises to open doors for us. God has opened many doors for us as believers and corporately for us as the church. Throughout the scriptures, we read about doors that remain open for us today. He shall take him to the door or the doorpost and pierce his ear with an awl. Then he will be his servant for life. But now his creditor is coming to take my two boys as his slaves. Tell me, what do you have in your house? Then go inside and shut the door behind you and your sons. Pour oil into all the jars, and as each is filled, put it to one side. They brought the jars to her and she kept pouring. You and your sons can live on what is left.
