We democratize the right to succeed by giving families living in poverty access to the high-quality education that will allow their children to live a very different life. We are recruiting to fill the position below: Operations Programme Manager Location: Nationwide Job Description The Operations Team designs, implements, and manages academy-level operations and support. We are the nerve centre of the company. About the Role Certain aspects of what we do originate in other departments or teams - from Development, Marketing, Recruitment and Training, Finance or Human Resources - but end with Operations. No matter how well other departments may complete their individual functions, it is up to Ops to be the interface that brings all academy-level support functions together. The role of Programme Managers is a microcosm of the overarching goal of the entire Operations Team, broken down by specific functional components. Within that realm of responsibility, Programme Managers identify and analyse operational needs, design strategies and processes to address these challenges, and supervise the necessary training, monitoring, and constant adjustments needed for these programmes to execute successfully. What You Will Do Programme Managers work closely with other departments to design and run these programmes. Some of the deliverables Programme Managers are tasked with include: Teacher Staffing- Bridge promises to have a teacher in class every day of the academic year. To meet this promise to our parents, the Programme Manager must work closely with our Recruiting and Training and People Operations Departments to make sure we find effective ways of filling local vacancies and with our Customer Care Department to devise ways to manage our nationwide team of substitute teachers so that can immediately provide cover for any class missing a teacher due to sickness or other. The challenge is to efficiently and effectively provide coverage for over 4, classrooms across Kenya and Uganda. Academy Repairs - with over academies, we need to continually ensure our academies are in good condition and account for both minor and major repairs. The Programme Manager must identify common challenges and problems and provide efficient and cost-effective solutions. This programme must work closely with our Construction Department and with regional managers to ensure quality repairs are carried out. To make sure everything is working properly, the Programme Manager must analyse vast amounts of data to pinpoint any challenges in this process. This includes working closely with the Software Team to limit the number of technological issues that come up and to immediately solve those that do arise and coordinating with our Academic Team to devise strategies and processes to drive improvements in lesson deliveries. Requirements What You Should Have: Ideal candidates should have experience managing projects, identifying business challenges through data and observation, creating solutions for these issues, and overseeing an operational programme. They should be proficient analysing and managing large amounts of data and comfortable working closely with different departments and teams. Experience bringing ideas and programmes to scale, working at similar ambitious start-up companies, or building and managing teams across countries is an added plus. A detailed doer - You have a track record of getting things done. You take ownership of every idea you touch and execute it to a fine level of detail, setting targets, engaging others, and doing whatever it takes to get the job done. You can multi-task dozens of such projects at once and never lose sight of the details. Likely, you have some experience in a startup or social enterprise. A creative problem-solver - Growing any enterprise from scratch comes with massive and constant challenges. You need to be flexible and ready to get everything done effectively, quickly, and affordably with the materials at hand. You know them, get them, have shared a meal with them or would be happy to in the future. Every decision you make considers their customer benefit, experience, and value. A life-long learner - You believe you can always do better. You welcome constructive criticism and provide it freely to others.

Chapter 2 : Bridge Park Centre Operations Manager â€“ NewStart

Operations Supervisor Reporting to the Operations Manager, the Operations Supervisor is responsible for the daily operations and oversight of general park processes and custodial field operations. The ideal candidate delegates assignments, sets and monitors expectations, and reports potentially unsafe conditions.

Operations Bridge We asked business professionals to review the solutions they use. Here are some excerpts of what they said: It has greatly reduced the number and duration of outages as support teams are notified immediately when something goes wrong or even before something breaks. The integration with the ticketing tool makes sure that there is a record for every issue. It allows us to build dashboards for individual parts of the business. The most valuable feature is its ability to integrate with everything. It has the capability to display overall health of the infrastructure and is very useful for executive reports on the health of the infrastructure. The preloaded rules and ways to monitor your systems are a must. Purely, its flexibility is the most valuable aspect. It is hugely configurable. Once it is running, it is very quick and stable, but an upgrade can quite easily break something or terminate unexpectedly. Our issues are largely support related due to where we are and the knowledge base that we have here. This issue relates both HPE in general and to the technical products. We are waiting for quicker release cycles. Remove the dependency of Java technology. This is a feature used for admin purposes to update the modeling. Implementation could be improved. Reporting has to be tackled a bit more. Conceptually, it is there and conceptually it is amazing, but somehow the module itself is suffering. The latest versions of the service reporting dashboards need improvement, such as service modeling.

The Operations Manager is responsible for overseeing general activities of the organization's operations in a Be the first to see new Operation Bridge Manager jobs.

Employers need operations supervisors with work experience in their specific field. For example, a production operations supervisor should have worked for some time as a non-supervisor in the production department. To achieve such a position, you should at least have a high school diploma. Taking courses in such areas as mathematics, science, production and technology prepare you for the obligations of an operations supervisor. The job demands that you must be an active listener, critical thinker and organizer. Administration As an operations supervisor, your job description includes administrative functions. You are responsible for the execution and planning of the budget in the department. Your job also entrusts you with the task of overseeing the inventory and revamping the department to upgrade its contribution to the welfare of the organization. In addition, you need to formulate effective strategies that enhance the financial welfare of the organization. Operations supervisors also develop measures to motivate employees and undertake office management. Performance Evaluation Operations supervisors need to undertake a performance evaluation of their assigned staff. The task of addressing performance deficiencies falls squarely on your shoulders. With the concurrence of management, an operation supervisor can institute disciplinary proceedings against a staff member leading to his termination. Customer Support Operations supervisors or operations managers strengthen the relationship between the organization and its clients by recruiting quality staff members. The people working in the customer support department must be customer-oriented; an operations supervisor ensures that this is the case. He oversees the department and checks whether it is meeting the set customer satisfaction goals. An operations manager undertakes these efforts to enable his organization to witness consistent revenue growth. Sometimes, he may have to welcome or offer assistance to customers. He also has to oversee the implementation of procedures, goals and objectives within the department. This role involves instituting ways of improving the work environment and the business operations in the company. As part of the implementation process, operation supervisors keep a close eye on the adherence to these policies, objectives and goals.
