An alternate universe where Daredevil and Batman coexist. Though they do not like each other they are forced to work together to stop the combined might of Two-face and Mr. Hyde.

Or will Nightwing become the new "Man without fear"? These two have none. Nightwing, the first robin. And Daredevil, the man without fear. Young Dick Grayson was born on the first day of spring. His mother nicknamed him "little Robin. When he was up on the trapeze, he reminded his mother of a robin. Just when he was on trapeze, he reminded his mother as a bird. Man, no wonder they called him "The Boy Wonder. Dick joined the act at a very young age, having been trained in acrobatics from birth. Yes the same Tim Drake. The owner refused, and Dick saw his parents drop to their doom. Years later Dick met Bruce Wayne. Seeing that Dick experienced the same things Bruce did as a kid, Wayne trained Dick in fighting techniques and detective skills for a grueling 6 months. Finally, Dick had to pass a final test - "the Gauntlet". Dick had to elude the Dark Knight on the streets of Gotham for one night from sundown to sunrise without any outside help. Robin, the Boy Wonder. Then he became the bad ass nightwing. Dick is now a beast in combat. Plus his strength is off the charts. While he relies more on speed and agility than strength, Grayson has shown incredible strength throughout the years. He also carries kai sticks which he can use to electrocute people or turn it into a freaking bow staff. His fists can also be consumed by lighting, making awesome thunder punches. Also, Dick wears these gauntlets on both hands that contain a wide array of equipment, such as sonic or smoke pellets, knockout gas capsules, throwing tracers, and his own batarangs called the wing-dings. It houses a 3. Not only is it essentially bullet proof, but it also houses a 3. He even took the mantle of Batman himself. But Bruce Wayne came alive again and he retook the identity of Nightwing with a red suit. This is my gig. Matthew Murdock was blinded at a young age from being exposed to chemicals from a truck, but gained extraordinary senses. Oh yeah his weakness is a bell besides human weapons. A lawyer during the day, Matthew becomes a vigilante by night called Daredevil, the Man Without Fear. Well getting those chemicals in his ways worth it. Daredevil is a master martial artist, having been trained by stick, he taught Matthew a gymnastics and boxing fighting style. With this sort of training, he was easily able to overpower the Kingpin. While he uses his bare hands, Daredevil can also use blunt objects, firearms, and throwing weapons. The red areas could only protect against knives, depending on the angle, while the black parts are bullet resistant. The suit includes a pocket located on the left hip of the suit to allow Daredevil to store his Billy Club, a short staff that splits into two short sticks. For a "normal" human, Matt has demonstrated remarkable physical strength. Daredevil is an Olympic-level weightlifter and possesses the normal human strength of a man of his age, height, and build that exercises intensively and regularly. Matt has demonstrated that he can lift and handle a lbs. At his peak, Daredevil possesses sufficient strength to press lift approximately lbs. Not everyone deserves a happy ending. Alright the combatants are set. Lets end this debate once and for all. He then spots a gang of criminals terrorizing two people. He then drops from the building and brings out his kai sticks. Nightwing ties up the criminals for the cops and frees the two people. Daredevil watches Nightwing talk to the cops and sees them drive away. Daredevil then throws his sticks at Nightwing, aiming for his arms. Daredevil drops from the building, and pulls him toward him. Nightwing charges his glove and punches Daredevil. Who the hell are you? Nightwing reacts quickly and uses his kai sticks and hits him in the face. Nightwing then jumps onto the top of the building, so does Daredevil. They both clash sticks. Nightwing then kicks back Daredevil and uses his kai sticks to throw some combos. Daredevil then wraps his sticks around Nightwing and pulls him toward. He then smashes Nightwing on the ground and tires to stomp on him. He then clangs his sticks and creates a static shock wave, sending Daredevil off his feet. Daredevil gets up and sees that Nightwing is gone. Daredevil runs from building to building, hearing a motorcycle engine. He then jumps from building top to building top. They both clash fists. Daredevil jumps to a window ledge and jumps off, aiming for Nightwing. Nightwing then hits him with his elbow, and eventually jumps off the vehicle. Both are in a corner. Nightwing grabs Daredevil and keeps punching him. Nightwing then picks him up and smashes him on the ground. Nightwing tires to step on Daredevil, but Daredevil uses both of his legs and sends Nightwing up into the air. When Nightwing is almost on ground level, Daredevil kicks him back, forcing him to go through cars and eventually hits a pole. Not in the best shape now are you? Nightwing then combines his kai sticks into a bow staff. Daredevil then attacks Nightwing with his sticks. Daredevil then grabs the tip of the staff. Nightwing then lifts the staff and smashes Daredevil on the ground. Nightwing then jumps in the air, twirls his bow staff, and hits Daredevil. Daredevil then punches and kicks Nightwing rapidly and punches him in the face. I had enough of your shit! Nightwing then clangs his kai sticks, creating static electricity, shocking Daredevil. He then calls up his motorcycle. He then back flips right at the moment when his motorcycle has arrived. He then slashes Daredevil's face with his gauntlets. He then jumps in the air, twirls his staff, and stabs Daredevil. Daredevil is sent back smashing into a wall. Incapacitated, Nightwing is unable to move. Daredevil unleashes a fury of punches and finishes him off. This fight was very close. While Nightwing was agile and a better fighter, Daredevil surpassed Nightwing in senses, toughness, and versatility. Both were tough and strong enough to take on enemies like the Kingpin and Deathstroke. But the only reason Nightwing won against Deathstroke was with the help of Batman. Being trained under expert tutelage, both have been able to do intense things. However, Daredevil has gone against foes with sonic powers with before and has defeated them. Plus, Daredevil is extremely fast, and I mean in more ways than one. True, Nightwing may be able to dodge point blank bullets, but Daredevil has not only dodged point blank bullets, he has managed to dodge lasers and much more. Looks like Daredevil lived up to his name while fighting Grayson. The winner is Daredevil. Next time on death battle Rayquaza comes out of the lake and roars. He then blows up Foxes ship. Giga Seadramon pops out of the water.

Chapter 3 : How Daredevil Convinced Ben Affleck To Play Batman

So, when first created, Daredevil was a brightly-colored character, quite different from Batman. His personality was also much more typical of the Marvel superheroes of that time, and wasn't inspired by Batman at all.

In Elseworlds, popular characters are placed in different situations or realities. Now normally, a team up like this can devolve into some bad storytelling. That is happily not the case here. Daredevil is This was a pleasantly surprising Elseworlds tale. Daredevil is still idealistic and seeks redemption and rehabilitation. Batman is vengeful and dark. Their mutual outlooks color their perception of Harvey Dent. In this tale, Dent and Murdock knew each other from their Law School days. I enjoyed the back and forth between Batman and Daredevil, in terms of them arguing their particular philosophy. It is instructive to see the difference between Batman and Daredevil. I also enjoyed their different styles. Batman is the consummate detective, using high-tech means to come to a conclusion. Daredevil uses his heightened senses to find clues. Together, they are a great team. The artwork was different. Initially I did not care for it, but as the tale progressed it grew on me. While, my stylistic preference is different-this art slowly won me over. Some of the panels, especially between Daredevil and Batman fighting, work well. Some of the panels do not. I wish, there were more detail in this art. But it is not bad for what it is. I enjoyed this Elseworlds tale. Batman and Daredevil make a good team up. The subtle differences between the two, even though at first glance they seem very familiar, are well illustrated by the writer. The tale is a good one and well crafted even as it stands astride two separate worlds MARvel and DC. So I would recommend this for any Batman or Daredevil fan. Unlike many team ups this does not fall flat nor does it fundamentally change the characters just to have them feasibly interact. That is a wonderful gift in a writer. So all things in total- this is a wonderful addition to my library and one I gladly recommend to anyone that likes a good Elseworlds tale.

This popularity influenced the creation of the intercompany crossover comics: Bruce and Matt are the sons of murdered parents which inspired them to later become avengers to the innocent. Both heroes have clothed themselves in a frightful image to strike fear in the criminal underworld. They have many similarities and differences which makes a crossover battle interesting. Maybe one day, we will see this crossover in live animation like Batman V Superman â€œ. Gotham City is a fictional city in the DC Universe. Gotham City is filled with much corruption, ranging from politicians down to the local street gangs. With this environment Batman strikes the likeness of Dracula. Batman refrains from killing criminals even though his methods of intimidation makes a person feel as if death were close. With his radar sense, Daredevil could hone in on his opponent before even reaching them. This also makes it hard for his enemies or opponents to hide from him. His superpower is also his weakness for too much noise at high frequency could overwhelm Daredevil. Since Batman has no superpowers, he must use his tactical weapons as an extension of himself. Batman has won most of his battles with his arsenal. Even though this is a battle between the two characters, heroes always benefit from each other instead of fighting. Batman could also create a utility belt for Daredevil. This high-powered utility belt could work in unison with the mask. Well how about a battle with Nightwing?! The same result would happen to Daredevil if he battled Nightwing. Because of the radar sense, Daredevil would come second to the arsenal might of Batman or Nightwing. Do you think Matt Murdock could be an excellent Batman?

Chapter 5 : Daredevil/Batman: Eye for an Eye - Wikipedia

When you think about it, Daredevil and Batman have a lot in common. Both lost their parents at a young age, both prowl urban jungles, and both strike fear in the hearts of superstitious and cowardly criminals.

Edit Bruce Wayne sat on his private plane, reading a martial arts magazine. He smiled as he noticed that "The Dark Knight Batman" was mentioned in the magazine. Oscorp signed a contract with Wayne Enterprise that they were making a mysterious "super soldier serum". He needed some time off, he was tired. He had designed a special capsule to conceal his Batsuit in as to not cause troubles with airport security, in case he was needed in New York. A few hours later, the Wayne Enterprise plane landed and he and Alfred got off. They were greeted by a businessman with red hair and a gaunt face who had two men in black suits and sunglasses with him. Come, I will be much obliged to show you around Oscorp Industries". Bruce shook hands with Norman Osborn and he showed him and Alfred around Oscorp Industries while his bodyguards followed them. A super soldier serum," said Norman Osborn. Meanwhile, Matt Murdock walks through Manhattan after having a court session against a suspect in a murder case. Suddenly, he hears police sirens and gunshots, someone screaming. A bank robbery is happening! He sneaks into an alley behind a dumpster, where he cannot be seen. He takes off his sunglasses, all he can see is darkness and some lights, he can sense things from not too far away. He quickly changes into his Daredevil costume, leaving his clothes and sunglasses by the dumpster. He then leaps onto a wall, stabbing a metal pole into it. From the wall, he can sense the bank robbery going on from not too far away. Daredevil leaps from the pole and lands on the rooftop of the bank, he then opens a door and sneaks down the staircase, going inside the building. A robber sees Daredevil and begins firing bullets at him with a machine gun, but Daredevil quickly dodges and the bullets hit a wall instead. Sensing where the robber is, he hits him with a staff and disarms him, he then judo throws the robber out of a window. He stays there so that the cops can get him. Walking through the bank, Daredevil sees hostages. He saves the woman and frees her from her ropes, he then takes her to the rooftop where she will be safe and locks the door. Daredevil then rushes back to where the robbers are, he is being shot at by machine guns. He dodges the bullets and uses his staff to knock out the robbers, even killing one with a katana. He throws many robbers out the window and ties them with ropes so the cops can get them. Sometime later, at Oscorp. They say he is the man without fear," says Norman Osborn. In his head, Bruce thinks that he and Daredevil have a lot in common. All of a sudden, an alarm goes off in the Oscorp building as Bruce and Alfred are sitting in the meeting room with Osborn and his associates. It would be a perfect opportunity to prove myself to this city, Bruce thinks. He sneaks into a storage room and locks the door, quickly changing into his Batman costume which was in his briefcase. He checks to see if anyone is looking, then he sneaks out of the door, not as Bruce Wayne - but as Batman! He then catches up with Norman Osborn, who is running into a laboratory. His bodyguards run after him and try to prevent him from going into the lab, telling him how dangerous it is. Batman then jumps onto the ceiling and climbs into a metal hatch, sneaking into the laboratory. He sees two men talking, a very tall and terribly obese bald man in a white suit and a short man with a rather large head and a muscular build. Look at the files - this formula can evolve us into Homo Superior, the powerful mutant species! With this formula, everyone shall know how powerful the mighty Kingpin is! Just as the Kingpin is about to drink the serum, a vial of green liquid that says "KX, Secret formula", Batman intervenes. The Kingpin drops the vial and it breaks, glass shattering and the liquid spilling on the floor. He charges at Batman and tackles him, putting all his weight into a powerful blow. But Batman, the expert fighter, hammerfists the Kingpin and uses a grappling throw on him. The Kingpin is thrown into a wooden table, the table breaks when he hits it and he is knocked to the ground. He then grabs him by the collar and throws him into a wall. I can take care of whoever I please! Whenever I see criminals I stop them! Well, this is my city! These thugs are MY enemies! After a minute of Batman looking Daredevil in the eye Daredevil rushes at Batman and hits him with a flurry of fast kicks and rapid jabs, pushing him back. Batman grabs Daredevil and judo throws him to the ground but Daredevil gets up and jump kicks Batman in the head, Batman ducks and the kick misses. Then, Daredevil brings out his pair of nun chucks and strikes Batman with them, but Batman brings out a lasso and yanks the nun chucks out of his hands. Batman throws batarangs at Daredevil but Daredevil dodges them and leaps onto a wall, climbing to the ceiling. He then kicks Batman with his right foot while holding onto a pipe in the ceiling, but Batman knew it was coming and he yanked Daredevil from the ceiling and hurled him to the ground. The Kingpin and Hammerhead are on the floor, recovering from the injuries Batman gave them when Daredevil is thrown into them. The Kingpin grabs Daredevil and throws him at Batman in anger, he then struggles to his feet and rushes at Batman. Batman steps aside and Daredevil is thrown into a wall. Jumping behind the Kingpin, the dark knight elbows Kingpin in the back of the head and gets him in a grappling hold, jumping on his back. He tries to do a pressure point on Kingpin but he is thrown through a window and breaks it. Falling out of the window, Batman uses his grappling hook to jump into the building again and this time, he kicks the Kingpin in the head. The Kingpin tries to grab Batman but he trips the Kingpin and kicks him in the face. Dealing the final blow, Batman knocks out the Kingpin by elbowing him in the back of the head with brute force. It was a bullet fired by Hammerhead. Hammerhead rapid fired at him with his machine gun but to no affect, Batman was quick and dodged it and it could not penetrate his batsuit. Using a batarang, he cuts his machine gun in half and then throws Hammerhead out of the windows, he hits a metal staircase not too far down the building and is knocked out. Daredevil gets back to his feet and wipes blood from his lip. He then takes out a metal canister and presses a button on it, it unsheaths a martial arts staff. Rushing at Batman, he strikes him with the staff but Batman grabs a metal pole and counter attacks it. Some Oscorp security guards knock down the door and shoot at them but Batman covers Daredevil and tackles him out of the window. They fall off the building but Batman uses his grappling hook to catch on to a wall. Daredevil gets out of his hold and falls many stories until uses his own grappling hook to ensnare a wall. Swinging from the hook, Daredevil hits Batman, kicking him off of the building. The dark knight falls many stories and his grappling hook is lost Daredevil lands in front of him and they fight on a rusted iron staircase, Batman fighting with his metal pole and Daredevil fighting with his martial arts staff. Daredevil disarms Batman and rapidly beats him with the staff, then kicks him down the staircase. Daredevil tackles him and punches him in the face many times, Batmans lip is busted and he is bleeding from his mouth. He punches Daredevil in the ribs, taking the fight out of him and hurling him off of him. Wiping blood off his face, Batman gets back on his feet and pulls out a knife in his leg that Daredevil stabbed him with. It then begins to rain and there is lightning in the sky. The injured, but still fearsome Daredevil grabs Batman by the face and tries to pry his mask off, but he is electrocuted and he falls back down. He struggles back to his feet and tries to stab Batman with a knife but is disarmed. He hits Batman with a flurry of punches in rage but the dark knight blocks them all. The cracked mask of Batman falls off but he has a replacement mask underneath, a white mask made of bandages. He tackles Batman and tries to unwrap the mask but Batman hits him in the face and hurls him down the stairs. Just when Batman thinks he has won, as soon as he turns his back, a knife is thrown at him. This knife pierces his kevlar and is stabbed into his side. He grunts in agony and falls off of the stairs and onto the rain washed concrete ground of the city. Bruce breaths heavily and pulls the knife out of his side, grunting in pain. A small puddle of blood is forming under his body as the rain washes it away. Covering up the hole in his batsuit with his hand, Bruce gets back on his feet and blood drips onto his boots. I want to see your face He has tousled red hair and an unshaven face with blind eyes. His hair is wet from the rain. He then cuts off a piece of his cape to make his own mask. I will tend to your wounds", Alfred says dragging Bruce into the limousine and laying him down in the back seat. Waking up, Bruce is in a hospital bed and feels a stinging pain in his side. His wound has been stiched and bandaged, the bleeding stopped.

Batman really showcases his detective skills in a very impressive manner at the beginning of the book. Was a very good crossover, one of the better once since marvel vs. DC. Read more.

The boy wonder battles the man without fear in a duel to the end! In a world where super humans can fly through the sky or lift buildings over their head, it takes a lot more than a pair of tights for a mere mortal to stand out from the crowd. But these guys have it covered. Nightwing, the original protege of Batman. In modern times, the Well, until a mobster cut their cord on life short, literally. But they had a son, young, but just as talented as them. Orphaned and alone, all seemed hopeless for Dick Grayson. Until he scored the coolest foster dad in the friggin universe: Robin punches Batman in the jaw, he falls to the ground Smokey: Robin spent many many years kicking bad guys around the back alleys of Gotham City with his new dad. Who could forget the time he crushed Blockbuster under a truck, or when he whipped out that shark repellent? Never leave home without it, kids. But then Batman suddenly realized, "You know what, bringing kids into battle is actually a bad idea! As Robin, Dick received similar training that Bruce did to become Batman. This includes studying every martial art known to man. Holy time to update the resume, Batman! Whoa, the mouth on this one. Actually, it WAS for the best, though, not in the way Batman hoped. Inspired by a story of an ancient Kryptonian superhero, Dick took to the streets by himself with a brand new uniform and a brand new name, from then on, he would be known as Gotta hand it to Bats, he sure knows how to mold a kid into a criminal crushing machine, with expertise in tae kwon do, ninjutsu, akido, and a bunch of other styles, Nightwing is one of the finest martial artists in comic book history. No doubt helped by his world class acrobatic skills, he is one of only three people on Earth who are capable of performing a quadruple flip. His mask features a holographic UI, complete with night vision and a spectral analyzer. The mask can also deflect electromagnetic waves back to sender. He once reflected microwaves to give their originator a migraine. He also carries a re-breather, grapple gun, and wing dings. That weird alien font with all the shapes? No no no, more like the Batarangs, or throwing shurikens. The standard Wing Dings are extremely sharp, but he also carries dulled, ultrasonic, and explosive variants. To pull this off, he needed to impact the glass with over twenty four thousand pounds per square inch. Generally, any unsafe landing over twenty one feet is guaranteed to break bone. And Nightwing dropped feet onto his butt, and he was fine! At one point, Nightwing spent ninety six hours patrolling city streets looking for the criminal mastermind, Two-Face, and an additional five or more hours collecting evidence. A study on sleep deprivation noted that seventy two hours without sleep leads to a number of horrendous side effects, including hallucinations. Even more impressive, he once performed a skydive at miles per hour, which took all of fifteen minutes. That puts his starting position around twenty five miles high, and free falling faster than the speed of sound. For reference, real life Austrian athlete Felix Baumgartner performed a similar great leap from twenty four miles up, hitting a maximum speed over eight hundred miles per hour. To pull this off, he needed a specialized suit to protect him from the extreme cold, unfiltered sunlight, and lack of oxygen. And Nightwing just did it without any of that! And eventually, him and Bats finally made up, he even took up the cowl himself when Batman was out for a while. Nightwing is one superhero who will always come out on top, along with his partners, Jim and Juan. Boomstick; Sounds like a badass, but Jack actually boxed because it was the only thing he was good at, and he needed money to get his kid through school so that little Matt would have a better life than he did. This new athletic ability would come in handy when he witnessed a blind man walking right in front of a speeding truck. From that day forward, Matt was permanently blind. Still, Matt did not give up on the dream his father wanted, he earned his degree with flying colors, and founded a law firm with his friend, Foggy Nelson. Things were actually looking up for him. So, he dressed up like the devil himself, and literally scared the mobster to death. And so, Daredevil was born. Many blind people, particularly those born with it, experience a rewriting of the brain to heighten their other senses, somewhat making up for their lack of sight. Something similar happened to Daredevil, except, like, a hundred times greater. His taste can detect each separate ingredient in any recipe, including poisons, and his nose can track you down like a bloodhound. Who needs eyes when you can sense everything around you down to the smallest detail? And get this, Stick has basically the same blind powers as Daredevil. Whoa, chuckles silk sheets. Thanks to him, Matt learned how to hone his senses to know and maneuver through his surroundings even better than those with working eyes. He also learned how to tap into something called an Atom Induced Radar Sense. Like that thing that bats do when they bounce sound around to see in the dark or whatever? For combat, he built a versatile weapon out of his most innocuous possession, a walking cane. The club houses a cable, hidden blades, a recording device, and exploding pellets. It can even turn into a boomerang! Man, where do I get one of these? You know how Captain America tosses his shield all over the place and it always seems to come back to him? Well, Daredevil does the exact same thing, and he can throw it hard enough to bust concrete! He also once took down Yakuza members all at once, some of whom were using a superhuman steroid called MGH. His keen control over his nervous system has also helped him resist tranquilizers and toxins, but his super senses are also his biggest weakness. He even managed to balance his life of law and the crime fighting, and became a huge success on his own. Papa boxer would be proud. Daredevil holsters his club.
