The Book Book name- De Attached Shades of time Author- Ram Joshi Published by - Notion press Published year- Genre- fiction Price-â,1 /- The story This is a story of Olivia, a travel blogger, her mother, Meera, an Alzheimer patient, and her father, Abdul Khan, a terrorist.

It has its unique grammar and further its classification is great. Lal kitab was written by Pt. He had a particular interest in languages. He studied Urdu, English and Persian with great enthusiasm, he also excelled in mathematics. He was blessed with an exceptionally good handwriting and it continued to excel in it till his very end, was very fond of good quality pens and had a remarkable collection of expensive pens of all brands. Thereafter he studied in astronomy and astrology and studied all the astrological works in detail. He reached the conclusion that the planetary effects of planets on human destiny can be judged by both palmistry and astrology. He also had god gifted knowledge of reading signs, such as facial features, built etc. He attempted to combine all these by inter-linking them and termed this combined knowledge as Samudrik knowledge i. This book was a little difficult to understand as it relied heavily on palmistry and had many mistakes maybe due to some printing error or negligence. It was followed by Lalkitab Teesra Hissa in , it was a book for ready reference, poetry was used in lalkitab for the first time to help the readers help in memorizing the concepts. The next edition was titled Lalkitab Tarmeemshuda published in ,it is the most elaborate and detailed book on lalkitab ideology. It was followed by next edition after a span of 10 years in as IIm-e Samudrik ki buniyad par ki lalkitab. After his retirement pt. He took up this practice purely out of his interest in the subject. Pt ji was a whimsical person. At times he looked out to be a simple villager but he was also found of latest suits and conversed fluently in flawless English. Since he was in constant touch with Britishers during most o his service, these mannerism grooped in him. Although he had himself authored the books but he never gave his opinion on the kundali without reading from the book. He expired on 24th December In lal kitab houses are fixed, planets keep on moving them turn by turn as per the yearly horoscope and as per the grammar and conditions laid down in the lal kitab and give effect accordingly. Lal kitab has its unique grammar and remedial procedure which one has to follow thoroughly to understand it and then further apply it very carefully to get the desired results. It has been divided into grah phal and rshi phal. If a person was granted to take advantage of grah phal also then it would have been a hinderence in the nature. Similarly in this book very easy and nice methods are given to solve day to day problems of our life by applying the grammar of lal kitab and by making or reading the already prescribed remedies in it. This book in one way or anotherway is being applied by each and every person throughout the india as well as across the world. For example whenever there is marriage in india people sing songs of happiness and food is given. In north india the groom is made to sit on horse and applied kesar or haldi tilak and sisters feed the white horse with channa yellow channa dal dipped in milk and apply surma in the eyes of their brother. One should not go in the kitchen with shoes and sleepers which is in our tradition also and it is good for hyegine and health too. When someone will start reading the lal kitab they will definitely believe that it is written for them only and that is ithe beauty of this book that you start looking things surrounding you as per the lal kitab theory and you start yourself transforming into a better personality and a free person from problems and diseases. The one and only one simple rule is to be followed in reading this book is that make your inner as pure as one can and respect the feelings of others and try to be helpful to everybody.
