Remember that children, marriages, and flower gardens reflect the kind of care they get. We must cultivate our own garden. When man was put in the garden of Eden he was put there so that he should work, which proves that man was not born to rest. To nurture a garden is to feed not just the body, but the soul. Plants do not grow merely to satisfy ambitions or to fulfill good intentions. They thrive because someone expended effort on them. It teaches patience and careful watchfulness; it teaches industry and thrift; above all it teaches entire trust. And indeed, it is the purest of human pleasures. Gardening is an instrument of grace. Forbes My garden is my most beautiful masterpiece “ Claude Monet Garden as though you will live forever. Nature is constantly sending even its oldest scholars to the bottom of the class for some egregious blunder. That is not very long ago. Until then, where was all the food? Dear folks, the food was in homes, gardens, local fields, and forests. It was near kitchens, near tables, near bedsides. It was in the pantry, the cellar, the backyard. A person who is growing a garden, if he is growing it organically, is improving a piece of the world. He is producing something to eat, which makes him somewhat independent of the grocery business, but he is also enlarging, for himself, the meaning of food and the pleasure of eating. Life has no weapons against a woman like that. But green fingers are the extensions of a verdant heart.

By love I mean a noble and sensuous passion, absorbing the energies of the soul, fulfilling destiny, and reducing all that has gone before it to the level of a mere prelude. The indigenous nature of the soul The Spiritual Meaning of Disease and Science, None can love well who are not worshipers of the beautiful. To melt and be like a running brook that sings its melody to the night. To wake at dawn with a winged heart and give thanks for another day of loving. Dykes Love is much like a wild rose, beautiful and calm, but willing to draw blood in its defense. It wipes out all sense of time, destroying all memory of a beginning and all fear of an end. Love is unto itself a higher law. Eighty-nine cents worth of chemicals walking around lonely. Clark Love is the condition in which the happiness of another person is essential to your own. You and you alone make me feel that I am alive. Other men it is said have seen angels, but I have seen thee and thou art enough. Rittenhouse We choose those we like; with those we love, we have no say in the matter. Had she not lisp'd its praises in odes to the moon in her high-school days? It had to do with flowers and music and angels. Porter, "Frosted Cakes and Shotguns," The Road to Understanding, Time is too slow for those who wait, too swift for those who fear, too long for those who grieve, too short for those who rejoice, but for those who love, time is eternity. Love just makes it a safer place. Le Guin Love is not singular except in syllable. If your mistress is sincere and faithful, love her for that; but if she is not, if she is merely young and beautiful, love her for that; if she is agreeable and spirituelle, love her for that; if she is none of these things but merely loves you, love her for that. Love does not come to us every day. Its eternal goal is life No one who has ever brought up a child can doubt for a moment that love is literally the life-giving fluid of human existence. And no one can understand infatuation, no matter how many times he has experienced it. Love is directed towards what lies hidden in its object. Seuss Love makes your soul crawl out from its hiding place. When my hair has all turned gray, Will you kiss me then and say, That you love me in December as you do in May? If you hear bells, get your ears checked. A Biography, translated from German by Charles T. That is the only reality in the world, all else is folly. Henley On a cloudy night, when nothing seems above, still, there is love. For something, from someone. Under certain circumstances you would love even a rattlesnake; the loving fibre in man cannot remain entirely inert. The human soul abhors a vacuum; observe attentively the most hardened egoist, and at last you will find, like a little flower among the stones, an affection hidden under a fold of his soul. Love is absolute loyalty. People fade, looks fade, but loyalty never fades. You can depend so much on certain people, you can set your watch by them. In the beginning a flame, very pretty, often hot and fierce, but still only light and flickering. As love grows older, our hearts mature and our love becomes as coals, deep-burning and unquenchable. But because it sees more, it is willing to see less. Ward, Sleepless in Seattle Platonic love is love from the neck up. Slovak We waste time looking for the perfect lover, instead of creating the perfect love. Still, still that lovely ghost appears, Too fair, too pure, to bid depart; No riper love of later years Can steal its beauty from the heart. Tucker, You and I have our own special dictionary, and nobody knows what we mean when we love. A man may be very firm in other matters, and yet be under a sort of witchery from a woman. It is about small attentions. The flowers in the garden beneath my window breathed a stronger perfume. Perfumes are the feelings of flowers, and as the human heart feels most powerful emotions in the night, when it believes itself to be alone and unperceived, so also do the flowers, soft-minded, yet ashamed, appear to await for concealing darkness, that they may give themselves wholly up to their feelings, and breathe them out in sweet odours. Pour forth, ye perfumes of my heart, and seek beyond yon blue mountain for the loved one of my dreams! But if you mean it, you should say it a lot. What philosophy can calculate the vibrations of the heart before it can distinguish the colours of love? Without it she is like a closed blossom which exhibits neither its beauty or its fragrance; love reveals her inward mystery. For others it is making it work, never actually knowing what it is. Do you see the leaves falling from the trees, the sun rising and setting? Do you hear the ticking of the clock of time with each pulsation of your heart? Is there, then, such a difference between the love of a year and the love of an hour? I challenge you to answer that, you fool, as you sit there looking out at the infinite through a window not larger than your hand. The poets represent love as the sculptors design beauty, as the musicians create melody; that is to say, endowed with an exquisite nervous organization, they gather up with discerning ardor the purest elements of life, the most beautiful lines of matter, and the most harmonious voices of nature To try to find in real life such love as this, eternal and absolute, is the same thing as to seek on the public squares such a woman as Venus or to expect nightingales to sing the symphonies of Beethoven. O sovereign, sea-born Venus Love for my mother and dad And love for the friends I have had! Love for the blessings God gives me, Love for the sunshine and showers, Love for the creatures God put here, And love for the trees and the flowers Salinger, The Catcher in the Rye, They loved with a love that was frayed around the edges but strong at the seams. It makes you tell it. I would rather you tear my flesh and take out my heart than to say those words here. Without ripping your clothes, love dove into your bosom; I will not slash your flesh to heal it. What do you call this pain that has taken command of the best of my body? Tell me what that is, for only hearing it I am happy. It is a hidden fire, a pleasant thorn, a tasty poison, a sweet bitterness, a delectable pain, a joyful torment, a sweet and savage wound, a soft death. The first version, Comedia de Calisto y Melibea, was published anonymously in , was written as early as , and was likely written by someone other than Rojas. A later revised and expanded version, el Tragicomedia, appeared in The work, which is considered to be the first of the Spanish Renaissance, was not titled Celestina until The lines quoted here are compiled from multiple translations. Caspar Barth in issued a Latin version under the title Pornoboscodidascalus Latinus. Neuroimaging studies have shown that brain regions involved in processing physical pain overlap considerably with those tied to social anguish. The connection is so strong that traditional bodily painkillers seem capable of relieving our emotional wounds. Love may actually hurt, like hurt hurt, after all. But how often it was pushed aside by greed, by cynicism, by selfishness, by fearâ€”by any number of cold and worldly things! Selden Takes an Inventory," Your heart knows true love when it finds it, our job is to look until it finds us. That Romantic Love is not alluded to in the New Testament need not cause any surprise, for that sentiment cannot have existed in those days when Courtship and Individual Choice were unknown. But there are passages in St. He can only lose the woman. It is a happy chance if we, changing, continue to love a changed person. And life is a little weird. God gave them Youth, God gave them Love, and even God can give no more. The moment is so intriguing, the moment is so tremendously powerful, the moment is so intensely alive, that thinking stops. You are simply in awe, a great wonder surrounds you. Oh my goodness, so would all the fun. So, what are you gonna do about it. Buckminster Fuller Love is my religion â€” I could die for it. A woman finds love and insists on turning it into happiness. This tale divine â€” ancient as the beginning of things, fresh and young as the passing hour â€” has forms and names various as humanity. Our mental and physical vitality is impaired, our resistance is lowered, and we succumb to illnesses that often prove fatal. We may escape actual death, but what remains is a meager and barren existence, emotionally so impoverished that we can only be called half alive. Sometimes we make love with our hands. Sometimes we make love with our bodies. Always we make love with our hearts. Fall in love and you fall forever. Otherwise we love only the reflection of ourselves we find in them.
