Chapter 2 : HS Nature & Athletics | Harmony Public Schools “Where Excellence is our Standard

The Harmony of Nature and Spirit suggests that the accord between nature and spirit, and between meaning, happiness, and love, arises from an art of life that employs the same principles of imagination and idealization as those that exist in all artistic creativity.

Links There is no relationship in science. If we are to survive as a species and if the planet is to survive, we need to change from a science based reality to a spirit based one where we are mindful of the inter-relationship between all things. Nothing exists in isolation. Everything is interconnected and when you alter one thing you alter everything. In the 21st Century we are becoming more disconnected not only from our physical bodies and nature itself but also from our own spirit. Everything has an inner essence as well as an outer form. This universal law is one of the most fundamental keys of true healing. Inner and outer harmony is the result of balancing natural forces that exist in the universe and in each of us. Disharmony between these two is unnatural and eventually leads to physical disease. This physical disease also happens to Mother Earth when there is imbalance. As above, so below“as within, so without“as the universe, so the soul Sacred Plant Medicine Plants are amazing allies for healing. Plant essences are the purest form of sacred plant medicine available. They are made with the full cooperation of the overriding spirit of the plant and are the highest expression of vibrational or energy medicine. Working at a vibrational level they recognise the powerful physical and spiritual link between plants, humans and holistic wellbeing. I also import ceremonial and other essences from overseas for healing purposes and for connecting at a spiritual level with teacher plants. Plant Music Plants perceive sound and love to make music. When you hear a plant sing for the first time it is truly magical. I have a plant music instrument that allows plants to express their own unique voice. They love to interact with us when we make music with them. Discovering plant intelligence, plant sensitivity and the willingness of plants to communicate with us opens our minds and our hearts to a new vision of nature. I am available to come to your group to lead a beautiful nature based meditative or educational experience. The instrument can work off battery power so we can take the experience outdoors. Click on Read More to hear some samples of Plant Music. I have some MP3s available for sale. Light Therapy Ajna Light The Ajna Light de-calcifies and stimulates your pineal gland to open up your psychic vision in a natural and powerful way, in balance with your own physiology. This pulsed field structures the water in our cells and allows stressed and unbalanced areas of body to start to self-heal. Cells can only absorb structured water through the microtubules of the cell membrane. This amazing light therapy tool is available for you to rent and use in your own home.

In his vision he saw a great pine tree. The roots of this tree were five powerful nations. From these roots, the tree grew so high that its tip pierced through the sky and on top there was an eagle watching to see that none of the nations broke the peace among them. This Peacemaker was a man named Deganawida also spelled Deganawidah. According to oral tradition, Deganawida named each of the allied nations, choosing a place as the distinguishing feature of nationality: Later the Tuscarora would join them to form the League of Six Nations. The League is also called the Iroquois Confederacy. They refer to themselves as Haudenosaunee People of the Longhouse. The Iroquois tribes, like many other Indian cultures, viewed themselves as a part of nature: Old age was like a tree whose branches had been broken by storms and whose trunk had become weather-beaten and decayed. Good words were like flowers that bloomed and bore seed that lived on after the flowers had withered. Everyone-especially young men-found a special guardian spirit at puberty. Great emphasis was given to individual contact with the spirit world. Humans share the natural world with spirit powers and it is important to communicate with these spirit powers. Everything has a soul. This includes the plants, the animals, the lakes, the rivers, the rocks, and the forces of nature. All things have power to communicate their will and to influence human experience to some degree. In a generalized form, spiritual power is called orenda. One of the most important aspects of Iroquois spirituality is the dream. Writing in about the Seneca, the Jesuit missionary Father Fremin observed: To it they render their submission and follow all its orders with the utmost exactness. Dreams were the main form of contact between orenda and human beings. Individuals would fast and pray to obtain a vision. Dreams expressed the desires of the most inner realm of the soul. The fulfillment of a dream was absolutely essential. As with tribes in other culture areas, the Iroquois also had a vision quest. Young people were expected at puberty to engage in the vision quest in order to seek out a personal guardian spirit. Dreams could also tell of the future, providing advice on what to do and not do. Dreams were taken into account at council meetings. In addition, it was common for trade, hunting, fishing, and war expeditions to be organized in response to a dream. In mid-winter, the Iroquois would hold a dream festival. During this time, old fires would be put out and new fires would be lighted. Among the Huron, each person has two souls: In sleep, one soul communicates with spirits and with other human souls. It was essential to reenact these dream adventures in order to unify the two souls and make each person whole again. The failure to do this would result in serious illness which could impact the entire village. This entry was posted in Uncategorized and tagged Indians , Iroquois , spirituality , Teaching by Ojibwa. I read all of your diaries on dailykos and especially appreciate this one as it is close to home for me. This post is poetry. As a person deeply connected to the earth and the natural environment, i have asked and found my spirit guide, which has helped me focus and gather my personal power when i needed it most. Dreams have been a guiding force for me- i ask for solutions before sleeping and am usually given answers. I view them as sleeping meditations.
