A tradition like this is also seen in Sunan Abi Dawood. Sharhe Fiqhe Akbar also indicates that the period of Caliphate is thirty years. Author of Sharhe Maqasid, Allamah Taftazani says: Abu Bakr for two years, Umar for ten years, Uthman 12 years and Ali a. From this aspect the figure of 30 is reached easily. Now the readers may see that Taftazani says the Caliphate of Abu Bakr was only two years. Similarly, in Tarikh Abul Fida 4 it is given as two years, three months and ten days. Then in Seeratul Muhammadiya 5 it is given as two years, three months and 4 or 5 nights. According to Taftazani, the Caliphate of Umar was 10 years. While in Seeratul Muhammadiya it was 10 years, 7 months and 5 nights, in Abul Fida 6 and Hayatul Haiwan this period is 10 years, 6 months and 8 days or 5 nights. Some have written, 13 nights instead of 5 nights. But some have written 11 years, 11 months and 14 days. But there is a great divergence from the view of Taftazani regarding the period of Caliphate of Ali a. Taftazani says it was 6 years but on page of Seeratul Muhammadiya, it is 4 years, 4 months and in Hayatul Haiwan it is 4 years and 9 months. None of the books mention it to be 6 years. The conclusion of all this calculation is the Caliphate of all these four Caliphs together does not add up to 30 years. Then in order to complete the figure, scholars include the short Caliphate of Imam Hasan a. In spite of this, the figure of 30 years is not reached. Also the view of Taftazani, that the Caliphate of Ali a. This control had passed into the hands of Muawiyah. Thus, the view of Taftazani is incorrect. Some have calculated the period of Caliphate of Imam Ali a. But this also seems incorrect, because his control on Islamic lands had ceased to exist. Thus, the period of 30 years can never be made to fit Caliphate. According to the writer, this tradition itself seems baseless. If it had really been authentic, the period would have definitely reached 30 years. On the basis of the unseen knowledge of the Holy Prophet S he knew all that was to occur till Judgment Day. So how could he not know the duration of Caliphate? Thus, this tradition is a fabricated one. The one who has fabricated it, did not do his calculations properly. It seems it was concocted to prove the legitimacy of the first three Caliphs.
