

Chapter 1 : divine inheritance | Tumblr

"Her Divine Inheritance..A Compelling, Emotional Story of Family, Survival and Love. "Her Divine Inheritance."The title may seem obvious, but its true meaning will surprise readers. Set out West, in Washington State, the eldest child of six is suddenly thrown into solely caring for her siblings upon the sudden deaths of her parents.

Mosiah sent a proclamation throughout the land, and great numbers of people assembled. As they arrived, they pitched their tents round about with the doors facing the temple. The people were organized by family with father, mother, children, and grandchildren grouped together. In every dispensation of time, the family and home have been recognized as the basic unit in the kingdom and the foundation of a righteous life. It was no less in Nephite days. During his discourse King Benjamin counseled parents with regard to their duties. He advised them of their responsibility to feed and clothe their little ones and to teach their children the commandments and help them live peaceably with each other. He then concluded that part of the speech with the theme chosen for this conference. His conclusion referred to the higher law and presented the greatest responsibility and challenge that parents have. Teaching begins at birth and is especially important in the early years when children are impressionable and feelings and patterns of behavior are formed. In rare cases children learn to love others in spite of parental behavior and inadequate teaching. Generally, however, the lessons are learned best in a home where parents love each other and express love for their children. President McKay stated that a home to be worthy of its name must be characterized by love. Every home has both body and spirit. You may have a beautiful house, with all the decorations that modern art can give, or wealth bestow. You may have all the outward forms that will please the eye, and yet not have a home. It is not home without love. It may be a hovel, a log hut, a tent, a wikeup, if you have the right spirit within, the true love of Christ, and love for one another—fathers and mothers for the children, children for parents, husband and wife for each other—you have the true life of the home that Latter-day Saints build, and which they are striving to establish. From where does love come? Is it a divine inheritance? Is it a gift of the Spirit and, therefore, a function of a righteous life? Can it be learned? Can we acquire it from others? Is an understanding of the plan of salvation important to the development of love? Are service and sacrifice key requirements in its cultivation? The first is for parents to magnify their divine inheritance by exemplifying love and service to each other and to their children. The second is to teach children the gospel emphasizing the making and keeping of baptismal, priesthood, and temple covenants. The third is to provide opportunities for sons and daughters to serve. The fourth is to teach children the meaning of the Atonement. Although this last step is an integral part of the second i. Men and women, sons and daughters of deity, inherit divine attributes in embryo. The consummate attribute is charity, or the pure love of Christ. Consequently, each of us has within our soul a seed that, if nourished, will sprout into warm, intense feelings for parents, brothers and sisters, our children, the Savior, and others. It holds everything together. Love between the father and mother establishes identity and self-respect in children. Deseret Book Company, ], p. When a husband shows respect for his wife, children learn respect for parents and for each other. Another key relationship in the home is that between parents and children. If a woman has any degree of spiritual maturity, there is an instinctive love for her newborn child. She sees the infant as a prized gift from eternity, and the intensity of her feelings is almost overwhelming. She has passed near death to bring the newborn into the world and would sacrifice her own life to protect it. There is a spiritual dimension to the bonding. Recently a young woman contemplating marriage asked my daughter, a married woman with five children, what it was like being a mother. The question bothered my daughter because it missed the essence of motherhood. My daughter told the young woman: You will be performing physical tasks but miss out on the spiritual dimension of motherhood that makes all the difference. Often there is less concern for the physical but more consideration for the emotional, spiritual, and intellectual challenges. Still, physical needs are always part of the picture. A few weeks ago, while attending a stake conference in California, Sister Bateman and I listened to a new convert bear witness of the love she has for her son as well as for the Restoration and the healing power of the priesthood. Her introduction to the missionaries was unusual, and her story illustrates the powerful love of a mother for her young boy. It began last year when my son shattered his arm. We were told that it would be months before we would know if he would ever. There is nothing more painful than seeing your child suffer. The day after Sean came home from the hospital, I saw two missionaries walking by our house. I knew Mormons were good people with strong faith, so I asked if they would come in and pray for my son. They gave him a blessing with oil. I could feel the power of the Spirit in the room. Within days we began to see signs of improvement! Even the doctor was amazed. We would talk about this miracle and about God. The Spirit was always strong when we would talk. I told them that I did not intend on becoming a Mormon and was afraid I was wasting their time. They assured me it was not a problem. They continued to stop by, and we began the discussions. I could not deny the spirit that was with us each night as we held discussions. I still had doubts. How do I know it is not just a good book? Pray and ask God if it is true. He cannot lead you astray. Ask with a sincere heart and real intent. It was a very physical, very tangible experience. This physical sensation was accompanied by a spiritual enlightenment as well. Nothing else would have been able to cut through my doubt. This experience was very moving. I was afraid the missionaries might think I was a little strange when I told them about this experience, but they opened their books to scriptures that described my experience exactly and indicated that the next step was to be baptized. MacKenzie on March 4, ] The good sister had a number of challenges to overcome before she was baptized, but the divine light within and her conversion experience more than compensated for the roadblocks placed in her way. The mother had seen missionaries before but had never sought their help or even engaged them in conversation. From her statement one may assume that faithful LDS members had crossed her path. She, too, was a woman of faith. She believed in the power of prayer. And just as Cornelius was prompted by the Holy Ghost to seek help from Peter see Acts 10 , this good woman undoubtedly received a spiritual prompting to approach the missionaries. But where did the courage come from to heed the prompting? The intense concern for the son caused her to seek help from two strangers. Would this woman have approached the missionaries if the crushed arm had been her own? Perhaps, but not likely. The intense feelings inherited and developed for her son were the motivating force. Would it include a lifeless limb? Would a useless arm inhibit him in other ways? Her concerns transcended her reluctance. They are part of the light brought from the premortal world. Since light responds to light, the divine spark of love in the heart of a child is lit by the candle flame burning brightly within the soul of a mother or father. Another important relationship in a family is that between children themselves. Often an older brother or sister will come to the aid of a younger sibling in a show of love and concern. Larsen at the recent Young Women conference. The story is about twin girls, Brielle and Kyrie, who were born prematurely. Kyrie, the larger sister at two pounds three ounces, quickly began gaining weight and calmly slept. But Brielle, who weighed only two pounds at birth, could not keep up with her. The parents consented, and the nurse slipped the squirming baby into the incubator with the bigger sister. No sooner had the door of the incubator closed than Brielle snuggled up to Kyrie and calmed right down.

Chapter 2 : What is the meaning of the divine inheritance? | THE DIVINE HEART OF GOD THE FATHER

*Her Divine Inheritance: A Story of Family, Survival and Love [Sharon Smith] on www.nxgvision.com *FREE* shipping on qualifying offers. Her Divine Inheritance .A Compelling, Emotional Story of Family, Survival and Love.*

The villagers who took care of her, helping other people [1] Dislikes: The magic tribe that destroyed her village, Malevolent Horde Weakness: Dual Personality [1] Darkness overwhelms the world during a total eclipse. Can you understand why? This is a story of a goddess who sacrificed herself to save the world. Pure evil has always been a fact of existence. Once the Malevolent Horde was awakened, its black flame began to consume everything. The strength of the Malevolent Horde was so great, even the gods were rendered helpless. With the destruction of existence at hand, only the sounds of suffering could be heard. Agnesia, the goddess of life and purity, was traveling eastward when she came to battle with the Malevolent Horde. Realizing that evil can never truly be expunged, she sacrificed herself by sealing the Malevolent Horde within her body. Agnesia succeeded in saving the world, but at the cost of her immortality as a goddess. She chose to continuously die and be reborn in an effort to keep the Malevolent Horde sealed away. Seizing this opportunity, the Malevolent Horde conspires to flex its powers. Once the eclipse passes, another girl child will be born, carrying within her an immense sadness. This time, the girl holding this darkness within her is Rin. Rin grew up in the small village of Gaon, in an area distant and isolated from the rest of the world. The locals knew that the girl was the reincarnation of the goddess Agnesia, so they treated her with love and always protected her from any danger. Under the tutelage of the last priests of Agnesia, she became a friendly and cheerful girl radiating purity despite being a little naive, as she does not know the mysteries of the rest of the world. Trained to also become a priestess of Agnesia, her favorite pastime was playing with the gusts of wind that she was capable of commanding, probably due to her divine inheritance. Unfortunately, on her fifteenth birthday, Rin witnessed a terrible tragedy. The date coincided with a solar eclipse that covered Aernas with darkness, thus increasing the power of evil and his followers. Out of nowhere, the village of Gaon was wiped out by a massive attack of demonic creatures. All the inhabitants fought bravely, but in the end, Rin was the only one to escape with her life, while the rest of her friends gave their lives to protect her. Behind that attack were the Evil Priests, servants of the ancient evil that sought to break free. Alone and traumatized, Rin for the first time was taken by fury. It just made her feel the evil growing from inside her, trying to break free from the seal. Having come in contact with her dark side for the first time, the girl thought that she needed help to contain the evil that she carried within herself. Armed with her sacred fan, Rin decided that her only chance was to ask for help for the people of the great city whose stories she heard since she was a child. A distant city, where magic was of utmost importance. Personality Since young, Rin grew up in a place where there was hardly any contact with the outside world and was treated with affection and protection, thus acquiring a pure and bright personality. However, she is not very bright regarding worldly matters and often gets fooled by scheming people with bad intentions. Underneath her MP bar are five cards, each of which resemble glyph charges. In order to obtain glyph charges, they recharge slowly or quickly if Rin is idle for a few seconds. A glyph charge is used whenever the X button is pressed when dashing, jumping, or performing a combo. This inflicts extra minor damage onto the opponent and leaves a temporary decrease in their defense. Whenever an MP skill is performed, two buttons will appear over Rin that show directional arrows. If the player presses these arrows on the keyboard before the skill is performed, Rin enhances the skill greatly. Although her skills use a glyph charge as well, no effects are placed onto the opponent.

Chapter 3 : Prayer and inheritance - www.nxgvision.com

The divine inheritance means we are called to literally inherit everything God the Father has, with Himself as Perfect Love above all else. And you have no idea what that is like, what perfect bliss and joy it entails, until you have tasted it.

Grid View List View The historic statues and idols of Gods and Goddesses were self-portraits of the reverent human qualities they saw echoed in the heavens. The 12 zodiacs each personifying a force they deemed to be worshipped. Our lives have changed dramatically since human beings were viewed in this light, but we are still performing these divine acts that we once deemed as deities in one another Aries: The manifestation of Divine Will, the ones familiar with supreme power and wisdom, willing to risk everything. They saw the Great Imaginer who directly received visions from beyond, and they saw a feminine erotica and rage that could burst things into flames. They saw the Voyager and the clever strategist who seemed to be directly in tune with the will of God leading them into new lands, battles, and seas. Aries was the one capable of leading their nation, the one who mediated and counselled the masculine and the feminine. They were the ones with the Spirit of Spring that reanimated life and demonstrated the possibility of life after death. In Taurus they saw the ones who the choir of angels used as an instrument. They saw the Empress of Nirvana, the ones who wrote the cosmic tune. The ones who flowing in the rhythm of nature, performing sorcery playing with the colours, minerals and materials of earth, personifying the image of Divine Beauty. They saw the carries of the Womb of Consciousness in the cerebellum in which Taurus rules, and conveys the Divine Feminine Language. In this, they saw the very Cosmogonic Principle itself, the clairaudient personification of The Ancestral Mother of All Life, unconditionally providing the agriculture that sustains life like only a parent could. In Gemini they saw the inventor of words and thus The Magician, Enchanted Writer, the Storytelling Sage, The Teacher mediating between Heaven and Earth who could cast spells with the symbols of alpha within the consciousness of others, the one whose mind was so illuminated it was like a golden helmet. They saw the ones who were light footed astral beings, capable of sending their heavenly messages through any medium as The Psychopomps, the Cosmic Mind with resolved duality. They saw the patrons who bought the wisdom of the heavens to earth and the dispensers of astrology, alchemy, and the Word of God Cancer: In Cancer they saw the Mystic Midwife and Mother Goddess who helped bring life into the world and also soothe the pain of labour. They saw the anointed being that had no earthly source, whose origin could not be traced. They saw the personification of Matriarchal Consciousness, who carried the Cosmic Womb, the umbilical cord into dreamtime and the feminine soul, the ones capable of delivering prophecies from dream and fantasy Leo: In Leo they saw the Heroine and the Princess of Light who won the battle for the sun, the Angel of Abyss who was plunged into the darkness to provide life. The one with the highest willpower possible to slay the demon in a nightly ceremony, the one who placed the Sun in its zenith. The early morning amber glow was their declaration that Leo war has been won and the day is for worshiping their Sun within They saw the pure essence of God suffer inside human flesh to provide the evolutionary earth experience. In Leo they saw the Lion, the King of the Jungle roaming and commanding in their gracious sovereignty, glorifying God and His Rule in every movement. They saw the Children of the Fire that ignited the pure Divine Spirit. They saw the ones carried by heavenly carriages, glorifying the possibilities of the universe Virgo: They saw the illumination of wisdom, the instrument of cosmic creation - The Sole Creator, the ones who disappear into the darkness to wield the sole Divine inner love that makes spiritual enlightenment possible. They saw the transformer of sexual energy into creative spirit, the Inner Mary. They saw the Invisible Mind, The Word of Sophia, the word of the Goddess and sacred, ancient, secret symbols made flesh. They saw the ones who had the knowledge of cosmic karma and naturally dispersed this in daily affairs, in doing so maintaining the balance of universal order, the ones who ordered the seasons and nature and maintained astrology. They saw the ones with the mind residing the Library of Feminine Teachings, the captivating ones capable of bewitching all in presence, the personification of the angel, the one on the Threshold between Universal and Personal Self, The Enchanted Mirror that cosmic forces flow and mix into experimenting with the possibility of beauty Scorpio: In Scorpio they saw the creative visionary who glorified God in solitary hiding, the one who had manifested the power of the Magical Serpent. They saw someone who seemed to have access to knowledge and wisdom from unseen worlds and beings, the ones who accessed the door into the underworld, and possessed such glorious inner wealth it could only be remarked as treasure. This is why they were hidden away, they seemed to be special, and Progenies of Internal counsel from Higher Beings. They were the ones who carried the knowledge of other realms, had the ability to read and interpret historic symbols, life after death, and the secret knowledge of immortality. They were ones sought out for their wisdom, their guidance, their experiences - especially for those in the process of death, considered Spirit Midwives, Pharmacists, Sorcerers, or Healers. In Sagittarius they recognised a vast spectrum of light and supreme cosmic vitality. They saw the personification of wisdom and the Teacher who voyaged through many lands to declare the word. They saw the grandest gesture of the universe in one apparition, one worthy of superior worship for their transcendence, knowledge and implementation of spiritual law, and being cloaked in the sacred purple garments. It is for this reason they channeled and called upon the Sagittarius energy during meditation. They saw the Guru and Master of Philosophy who had died and risen again, the ones who carried the akashic record that wrote and conserved the law of higher mind mythology and practices. They saw the powerful beings capable of wielding lightning, and one who received many blessings resulting from good past life karma. In Capricorn they saw the ones who seemed to create, own, and control time. They saw the ones whose leadership bought the Golden Age, they saw the Chosen Ones with the wisdom and divinity to lead the young initiates. They saw ones with a Higher Purpose that demonstrated the ultimate glory of human, and they saw the Alchemist who transmuted lead into gold. They saw the Higher Being who rose after being summoned by the Prince of Darkness and rode on the rays of this rising sun to ascend up the mountain, the one who built the great cities in heaven down on earth, the ones who played the cosmic flute and harmonised the planetary orbit spheres. They saw the Crone, the Elder who had lived many lives, the ancient Priestess who visited towns to perform healing acts and enlightenment with the Teachings of all Ages. In Aquarius they saw a gift to humanity from heaven, the ones that seemed to drink from the enchanted fountain of youth with an energy for life that seemed almost otherworldly. They saw the ones that bore water above their illuminated minds and seemed to heal the unwell and elderly, young beings with old souls. In Aquarius they saw the Child of Mother Earth who frolicked amongst the flowers and bought the rain clouds. They wondered if Aquarians had wings, because they seemed to teleport and bring back ideas from other realms, holding the nectar that cleansed, ascended, and illuminated their followers. They saw the Awakeners, the ones with the caduceus spine, the ones who had the indwelling knowledge of secret cosmic realms, the ones who materialised angelic ideas. In Pisces: In Pisces they saw the effeminate Divine Child who was mystical, a descendent of Atlantis, and had a life and afterlife with a special destiny who was a conduit of special and higher teachings from secret places and beings. They saw the energy that flowed through their bodies and evoked every sensory experience through dance and art as the great cosmic muse. They saw the Wanderer through temples, intoxicants, and invisible realms to find the path home, they saw the whole Spiritual Sea in a single drop, the Holy one capable of salvation. They saw the Healer, the Nurse who sourced the magic of nature, faith, and indwelling forces to cure. They worshiped Pisces as The Priestess who existed simultaneously in both worlds, the ones who carried the memories of heaven and stories of collective past lives along their feet.

Chapter 4 : "Because He First Loved Us:" Children and Family Love - BYU Speeches

"Her Divine Inheritance"..A Compelling, Emotional Story of Family, Survival and Love. "Her Divine Inheritance".The title may seem obvious, but its true meaning will surprise readers. Set out West, in Washington State, the eldest child of six is suddenly thrown into solely caring for her siblings upon the sudden deaths of her parents.

When forced to face controversy, invariably it causes me to pray. Prayer leads me closer to God. And God leads me to fresh ways of thinking. This brings me peace and assurance. And somewhere in this process, the situation is resolved as well. Relatives were cut out to profit one person. Then subterfuge and misdirection obscured the changes. I was stunned when details dropped into my lap, exposing the event. What should I do? The obvious answer to me was But how should I pray in this situation? It seemed awkward to ask God to rearrange a distribution of money. Perhaps the other party was petitioning God on the inheritance, and having it all was the answer to their prayer. I remembered reading about someone asking Jesus to arbitrate an inheritance dispute. Then he warned the abused party not to think of life in terms of possessions. In considering this account, I began to ask myself what an inheritance was, really. Then it occurred to me to ask an even deeper question. From whom did I receive an inheritance? In an amazing moment, it dawned on me that the only Person I could inherit anything from is God! God is my Father and Mother. He is my creator and the source of all the good that I could ever receive. I instantly felt closer to God. It was so clear that my relation to God is one-on-one, not a chain-link affair. God is my creator, and that makes me a first-generation idea, equal in status with all other first-generation ideas. No one is closer to God, and no one is lesser in status either. Not that this intimate relationship with God separates me from human family. Feeling close to God unites us as His spiritual creation. The division that comes from bloodlines, race, and nationality fades from thought and experience. This opened a whole new way of thinking about inheritance. My inheritance came from God, not humans. It was the result of Life, not death. It was qualities and spiritual treasures. Intelligence, wisdom, integrity, grace, beauty, all the qualities of Life and Soul were my inheritance. I inherited all this good directly from the living God. We all received infinite spiritual qualities, spiritual treasures from God. What an astounding revelation! It entirely transformed my view of the situation. I already had it. Everyone had his or her divine inheritance. A wonderful sense of peace came with this new view. I felt assured that everyone would be fully blessed and no one would be deprived. In the legal procedures that followed, these spiritual insights sustained and supported me. But the inspiration and spiritual growth gained from praying through this experience has been worth far more to me than any physical inheritance.

Chapter 5 : Her Divine Inheritance by Marguerite Harold | Angus & Robertson | Books -

The first trailer for The Divine Inheritance and still one of the best. VA, can't wait for you to see this awesome cast bring these photos to life.

In this chapter we will focus on the process by which Divine Mind and our minds create. We will develop our understanding of how divine ideas are translated into thoughts and images in our minds for the purpose of manifestation. We will discover that we contribute in a profound way to the forming of our physical, mental, and emotional realities. As we come to understand more about the creative process, we will become aware of our ability to consciously cooperate with God in fulfilling the creative plan in the world. Your browser does not support the video tag. Ed Rabel handwritten note: We have only the Bible as a reference to this. First is mind, then mind expresses itself in ideas, then the ideas make themselves manifest" Jesus Christ Heals This description outlines the process of creation as it unfolds within Divine Mind. Each idea created by Divine Mind is whole and perfect. By acknowledging and expressing his or her divine inheritance " divine ideas. Man catches mental sight of an idea in Divine Mind and proceeds to put it in terms comprehensible to him on his plane of consciousness. All ideas have their origin in Divine Mind, but their character as unfolded by man depends entirely upon his acquaintance with God" Atom-Smashing Power of Mind The thinking faculty in man is such a vehicle, and it is through this that the visible universe has existence. Divine ideas are the most enduring and most powerful things in the universe, possibilities for the divine unfoldment of humankind are contained within these ideas. We have only to accept them as our divine inheritance and allow them to express through us. There are no miracles. There is no such thing as luck. Nothing comes by chance. All happenings are the result of cause and can be explained under the law of cause and effect" Charles Fillmore Prosperity If we are truly willing to enter into conscious co-creatorship with God, we must understand the law upon which all creation is based. This is the law of cause and effect. All cause is in the realm of mind. Effects are the result of the thoughts we hold in mind. This insight helps us become aware of the power of our thoughts to shape and form our world. Man is the power of God in action. To man is given the highest power in the universe, the conscious power of thought" The Twelve Powers of Man To recognize the power of thought is the key to working consciously with the creative process. It is by our thoughts that we transform not only our inner but our outer world. It is important to remember that when we use the term "thought" we are referring to the combined energies of both thinking and feeling. Man is the consummation of the Word. His spirit has within it the concentration of all that is contained within the Word. The Word, or Logos, is a mystical concept, a metaphor, which refers to God as creative principle. Each of us has the ability to express this creative principle through our spoken word. The more aware we are of its source and nature, the more powerful our word will be. Words themselves are not the power but carry the power of the thoughts they represent. Words express a thought already held in mind. Therefore, in addition to changing our words to effect transformation in our lives, we must also change the thoughts which have inspired the words. The most powerful of all spoken words are affirmations of Truth. In order for each of us to participate fully in this process we need to integrate these insights into every level of our being. Share a time in your life when you were aware of your power of thought. What did you learn from this experience? It has no boundaries. The free flow of ideas and creativity is your inheritance It is a wellspring that is inexhaustible" Eric Butterworth In the Flow of Life

Chapter 6 : Her Divine Inheritance : Marguerite Harold :

Marguerite Harold is the author of Her Divine Inheritance ( avg rating, 0 ratings, 0 reviews, published ) and Her Divine Inheritance ( avg rati.

Chapter 7 : Rin | Grand Chase Wiki | FANDOM powered by Wikia

I think CONSTANTLY of her inheritance! Inheritance is such a powerful word, blessings based on another man's works or reaping where you have not sown. As believers in Jesus, we qualify for and share the inheritance of Jesus.

Chapter 8 : Sept. 19, " I CLAIM MY DIVINE INHERITANCE " UP Church

*A Divine Inheritance (Of Great Value) (Volume 2) [Emily Gray Clawson] on www.nxgvision.com *FREE* shipping on qualifying offers. For Dani Rodríguez, growing up without a father has been hard, but her mom's new boyfriend, Anthony, is even worse.*

Chapter 9 : Marguerite Harold (Author of Her Divine Inheritance)

The foremost requirement for manifesting your divine inheritance is following the process for that manifestation. Jacob and Esau had the same father but they turned out differently based on their awareness and response to divine process.