how bout them cowboys?! unknown 1. what cowboys fans don't say about the team after a loss, becuae they all go crawl into a hole becuae, a whole their fanbase is a bunch of jackasses. 2.

Except unlike TO, absolutely nothing happened. Nobody gave him the George Teague treatment. Nobody obliterated him and sent a message. It was just a change of possession. And even Byard was shocked: I was actually expecting somebody to knock my head off. Then we just started dancing. I was like, if we get to the 50, if we get enough guys to the 50, we are just going to start dancing on the star. And pretty much no one with a star on their helmet bothered to even show up for the game, which begs the question: Tennessee walked into their house, punched them in their face, sat down, and made it their house. And the Cowboy players need to won that. But not nearly as much as the head coach and the owner do. There was a time where Jerry Jones seemed like the most competitive owner around. That he was going to do whatever it took to win a Super Bowl. What makes me say that? Look at his coach. An embarrassment like last night and a season that may have already slipped away, means Jerruh is going to step in and stop the hehomrraging, right? He needs to run his coach before they bleed out and die, right? And speaking for Jones, I say hell no. Not a damn thing. Jerry also told the media after the game that: I thought we would be sitting here with a positive result. This is a surprise to me and is a setback. This is exactly who the team is and this is exactly the life you have chosen. I know you went out and overpaid for Amari Cooper and thought that would jumpstart the offense. And for a moment, it looked like it had in the first quarter. But Cooper ended the game with 5 catches for 58 yards, the team ended the game with 14 points, and zero in the second half. Hardly an offensive explosion. Now the team is and on their way to yet another losing season. And a lost franchise. Was it really only 2 years ago that they went and had two of the most exciting rookies in the league in Dak Prescott and Ezekiel Elliott? Because that is one hell of a boring team right now. And they still have Dak Prescott and Ezekiel Elliott. Or at least they have two guys wearing their jerseys. Because Prescott looks like a shell of himself. And Dak Prescott looks like anything but a franchise quarterback at this point. The Cowboys simply are not good enough to overcome those types of mistakes. And Elliott went from a monster to a guy who might run for yards or 60, it just depends on the day. There are a ton of problems with the Cowboys, but the biggest is the fact that Prescott has regressed in a major way. Is he a franchise quarterback? Or do they need to go find another one? Do you pay him or do you dump him? If only they had a head coach who was a former quarterback and alleged offensive guru who could help develop him. Oh, wait, they do. Look, if I wanted a head coach to mentor a guy on how to clap, Jason Garrett is the man. At this point, does Jerry Jones even care if he wins or loses?
