Stephen I, considered the founder of the Kingdom of Hungary, was the first King from He greatly expanded Hungarian influence over parts of Austria, Croatia, Romania and Slovakia during his lifetime.

Hungarian prehistory and Hungarian mythology Italian fresco depicting a Hungarian warrior shooting backwards The Roman Empire conquered the territory west of the Danube between 35 and 9 BC. Around AD , a strong cavalry unit created the settlement of Aquincum and a Roman legion of 6, men was stationed here by AD A civil city grew gradually in the neighbourhood of the military settlement and in AD Aquincum became the focal point of the commercial life of this area and the capital city of the province of Pannonia Inferior. Initially, the rising Principality of Hungary "Western Tourkia" in medieval Greek sources [61] was a state consisting of a semi-nomadic people. It accomplished an enormous transformation into a Christian realm during the 10th century. The country switched to using the Latin language , and until as late as , Latin remained the official language of Hungary. Hungary became a powerful kingdom. This exceeded the income of the French king estimated at 17 tonnes and was double the receipts of the English Crown. His Golden Bull of was the first constitution in Continental Europe. The lesser nobles also began to present Andrew with grievances, a practice that evolved into the institution of the parliament parlamentum publicum. In " , the kingdom received a major blow with the Mongol Tatar invasion. The Mongols returned to Hungary in , but the newly built stone-castle systems and new tactics using a higher proportion of heavily armed knights stopped them. As with later invasions, it was repelled handily, the Mongols losing much of their invading force. After King Louis died without a male heir, the country was stabilized only when Sigismund of Luxembourg " succeeded to the throne, who in also became Holy Roman Emperor. For half a year in , there was an antifeudal and anticlerical peasant revolt in Transylvania , the Budai Nagy Antal Revolt , which was strongly influenced by Hussite ideas. He was elected governor then regent. He was a successful crusader against the Ottoman Turks, one of his greatest victories being the Siege of Belgrade in His election was the first time that a member of the nobility mounted to the Hungarian royal throne without dynastic background. He was a successful military leader and an enlightened patron of the arts and learning. Decline of Hungary " [ edit ] King Matthias died without lawful sons, and the Hungarian magnates procured the accession of the Pole Vladislaus II " , supposedly because of his weak influence on Hungarian aristocracy. The resulting degradation of order paved the way for Ottoman pre-eminence. The early appearance of Protestantism further worsened internal relations in the country. Ottoman wars "[ edit ] Main articles: With the conquest of Buda by the Turks in , Hungary was divided into three parts and remained so until the end of the 17th century. The north-western part, termed as Royal Hungary , was annexed by the Habsburgs who ruled as Kings of Hungary. The eastern part of the kingdom became independent as the Principality of Transylvania , under Ottoman and later Habsburg suzerainty. The remaining central area, including the capital Buda, was known as the Pashalik of Buda. After some more crushing defeats of the Ottomans in the next few years, the entire Kingdom of Hungary was removed from Ottoman rule by The last raid into Hungary by the Ottoman vassals Tatars from Crimea took place in The ethnic composition of Hungary was fundamentally changed as a consequence of the prolonged warfare with the Turks. A large part of the country became devastated, population growth was stunted, and many smaller settlements perished. The uprisings lasted for years. The Hungarian Parliament was reconvened in to handle financial needs. A liberal party emerged and focused on providing for the peasantry. Lajos Kossuth " a famous journalist at that time " emerged as leader of the lower gentry in the Parliament. A remarkable upswing started as the nation concentrated its forces on modernization even though the Habsburg monarchs obstructed all important liberal laws relating to civil and political rights and economic reforms. Lajos Kossuth , Regent-President during the Hungarian Revolution of On 15 March , mass demonstrations in Pest and Buda enabled Hungarian reformists to push through a list of 12 demands. The Habsburg Ruler and his advisors skillfully manipulated the Croatian, Serbian and Romanian peasantry, led by priests and officers firmly loyal to the Habsburgs, and induced them to rebel against the Hungarian government, though the Hungarians were supported by the vast majority of the Slovak, German and Rusyn nationalities and by all the Jews of the kingdom, as well as by a large number of Polish, Austrian and Italian volunteers. Lajos Kossuth escaped into exile. Territories of the Kingdom of Hungary and the Kingdom of Croatia green parts within the Austro-Hungarian Empire Because of external and internal problems, reforms seemed inevitable and major military defeats of Austria forced the Habsburgs to negotiate the Austro-Hungarian Compromise of 1867, by which the dual Monarchy of Austria-Hungary was formed. This Empire had the second largest area in Europe after the Russian Empire, and it was the third most populous after Russia and the German Empire. The two realms were governed separately by two parliaments from two capital cities, with a common monarch and common external and military policies. Economically, the empire was a customs union. The era witnessed impressive economic development. The formerly backward Hungarian economy became relatively modern and industrialized by the turn of the 20th century, although agriculture remained dominant until 1918. Many of the state institutions and the modern administrative system of Hungary were established during this period. The troops raised in the Kingdom of Hungary spent little time defending the actual territory of Hungary, with the exceptions of the Brusilov Offensive in June 1916, and a few months later, when the Romanian army made an attack into Transylvania, [92] both of which were repelled.
