Has this poem touched you? We no longer had the passion, respect, and the abundant love we once shared. This poem reminded me that in a relationship you cannot "lose" each other. Unfortunately, he and I placed our differences before our love by always fighting to be right and never fighting to understand. What you believe is yours is yours. Just a 3 month relationship, but love was so intense that we spent our time talking over 3 hours on the phone. We even called ourselves husband and wife. We had a 5 year age difference, and all got burned into ashes when my parents caught our chat. It became a big issue, but still we stood strong. I discussed these with my bud but she brainwashed me. He cried for me several times. He got into a great depression. I sacrificed him for my parents. He asked me many times, but because of myself I lied to him, and now he left me with his new girlfriend. I still believe no one other than me can love and care him better. And now my nights are sleepless and loneliness is frozen. I can laugh and bring fake smiles for those who love me. We were so in love. I thought we will marry each other. We trusted each other. I even gave him my virginity because I believed him when he say he loved me. He started to avoid me for two weeks. I went to him and asked, but he said it was nothing. I started to panic. He avoided me again for 3 weeks. He left so many unanswered questions in my mind. I thought we would never be apart. He just wanted you for sex. Of course you wanted to build your future with him. He will realize what he lost from the poem. I know that you did nothing but love him unconditionally, and it takes time to heal but, my friend, your future husband is somewhere out there waiting for you. Sometimes when a woman makes an excuse for not having sex, the man will freak out inside and feel so insecure that the first thing to pop in his mind is to find a better deal. He will get depressed from inside and sometimes he goes out to find a new life just to make himself confident and feel better. Were you touched by this poem? Share Your Story Here. But you have to put the work in, because, as the saying is, a poem is only as good as its reader. The beauty of this job was that you could get the measure of the whole piece in one go, even if as with a surprising number of them you were far from exhausting the poem in one or two reads. This was true of even the shortest of the long shortlist: Also, this poem made us laugh out loud. Others though not as short were just as concise and presented stories or traded insights or humour often with texture of language and rhythmical purpose as we say in the trade. Whereas in English, they tend to be short, up-their-own-arse poems made by grown men in brown cords walking up and down counting. I said as much once, the inspiration as it turned out for this: The most interesting aspect, and which may actually be quite radical, is how having to scroll down the screen makes the reading experience entirely linear, giving real suspense to each line break, making us attend to every word and to guess ahead before the new line comes up. This gives extra force, for instance, to punch lines, and indeed makes it seem an urgent business, reading a text poem, like the pools score teleprinter used to be, or how it was when Ezra Pound said poetry was news that stays news. So did its text message format, which has affinities with the resourceful stratagems of the old telegram. I like a poem that starts "Pls, stop sendg msgs2ths". The reader is being tested, as with a crossword puzzle or a Shakespeare play. Poetry has always enjoyed fiddling around with the shapes of words and numbers of words or number of syllables: It was interesting to see how inventive the competitors were. Some wrote fairly normal poems as far as style is concerned ; some wrote with as much technical resourcefulness as possible. The results were disappointing in some ways, in that the subjects tended to be rather predictable - the usual subjects, in fact: I was looking for wit and technical inventiveness in the more technologically adventurous poems, and for imagination, density and the magical quality of take-off in the others. I treasure particularly two. The form allowed only exceptionally gifted writers to develop an image to any extent, whereas the inevitable brevity made it quite easy to make something of a rhyme, if not exactly a rhyme-scheme. I was moved and amazed at how much feeling could be introduced in so small a space: On the other hand, it was sad to see how some, faced with such a small canvas, squandered words when they could have used the possibilities more fruitfully.

Chapter 4 : 'Blueberries' poems - Hello Poetry

Blueberries is a famous poem by Robert Frost. "You ought to have seen what I saw on my way To the village, through Mortenson's pasture to-day: Blueberries as big as the end.

Blueberries – Wild Finnish superfood I summed up that we now have about 30 liters of blueberries in our freezer. Now we can just concentrate on eating fresh blueberries as long as we are able to get them from the forest. This summer was a different kind of blueberry summer for me. Usually it has been me who has picked up the blueberries for our family. This summer it was my dear husband, grandmothers and great-grandparents who did that – BIG thanks for them for a BIG help! Because of the baby the nurse from the child health centre had forbidden me to pick up blueberries just a day before our blueberry project. I think food is one of the greatest pleasures in life. One of my diet guidelines is that I try to eat food that contains maximum amount of nutrients. Domestic and local superfood – that is what I favor, like Finnish wild berries. Already as a child I learned that blueberries are very healthy. My mom taught me to eat them and other wild berries and I have done that ever since. But what exactly makes blueberries so healthy? Research has linked blueberries particularly with the prevention of cardiovascular diseases. All sounds very good – no wonder blueberries are called superfood! Cleaning up the blueberries outside in a warm and sunny day was quite nice! Cleaning up any forest berries is an easy but a time-taking job These two friends have played a lot together this summer A young blueberry taster I like this phase because then I know that the job is almost done Vitamins, vitamins You need to put only some sugar on top of the cleaned blueberries. Then they are ready for freezing. Buy blueberry products online As I have said, fresh blueberries are the best and include maximum amount of nutrients. In spite of that you still have a possibility to taste and try this wild delicacy. Because we have lots of blueberries in Finland, we also have developed different kinds of blueberry products. For example dried blueberries, blueberry powder, blueberry puree, blueberry juice, blueberry jam, blueberry flavored rye sticks, blueberry chocolate, blueberry liquorice, blueberry cookies, eco-friendly blueberry hair shampoo and hair conditioner. Blueberry juice and blueberry chocolate are my favourite so I recommend especially to try out them! After our blueberry project it was time for a nap which did not last long this time! Unna was too eager to continue her plays with Jonas dog In the evening it was time to reward ourselves – Blueberries with vanilla ice cream, yum! Any thoughts or questions about this story? Inspirational Messages for Students: Motivational Quotes Inspirational Messages for Students: From inspiring messages about studying hard to motivational quotes about doing well in school and college – this post is packed with encouraging words for students. Parents and teachers often make the mistake of harping on and on about goals, focus, determination, commitment, hard work and other boring jargon. Young kids need to know how education can make life awesome. Exams should be seen as challenges rather than problems. Think about how learning should ideally be fun, not stressful. Jot your thoughts down on a note and give it to someone who is reeling under the stress of exams and tests. Better yet, post it on Facebook, Pinterest, Instagram and Twitter. But more importantly, think about it later and ask yourself WHY they told you to do it. A degree is a degree, a job is a job and hard work is hard work – as simple and direct as it can be. Give up thinking about your setbacks but never on your goals. Give up worrying about your past but never on your future. Let it shine out, is all you have to do. Every unique skill and talent has the potential to make you a superstar. Embrace your personality and unchain your inner strength. All you have to do is pay attention, work hard and give it your best shot. The only thing that should be permanent is your will to overcome it. Staying on one of the right paths is better than veering off to the wrong ones. Listen to them but at the end of the day, do only what your heart tells you to. Focus on your goals and study hard, because the last thing you want is to tire yourself out before the finish line. What you learn today is what you will become tomorrow. Use the image of their faces to motivate yourself to study hard and work harder. Think of how amazing it will be when twenty years down the line, you see them living in a trailer while you cruise past in your Bentley. Great, but did you have to build a rocket first. Good habits and hard work are all it takes to succeed and win. Get a life, start working hard today. It is the rocket which will propel you towards success. All you have to do is have an aim and work on everything that takes to get a lift-off. Like us on Facebook.
