Writing is a solitary endeavor. But writers need love, too. Writers with strong voices. Writers who have navigated the sometimes rough waters of publication, marketing and promotion. Writers who share my obsession with writing. I have been a freelance writer since , writing about all sorts of subjects for all sorts of publications, from newspapers and magazines to business journals and trade publicationsâ€™over articles in all. But in , a major event , https: I have an incredible story to tell and the best way to do that, in my opinion, is by writing a book. A memoir to be exact. In , I went to my first writing workshop. It was the Creative Nonfiction Workshop in Oxford. I was introduced to so many new ideas and information on writing non-fiction that reads like a novel. I was able to pitch my idea to agents, which was a very intimidating, but affirming experience. I continued to attend writing workshops, learning about the craft of writing writing in scenes, writing succinctly, writing creativelyâ€™. Three years ago, I attended the Mississippi Writers Guild www. The chapter meetings are the place where writers meet other writers and share information. Writers bond with and encourage one another. There are ten chapters of the Mississippi Writers Guild. Each year, the Mississippi Writers Guild holds a conference in a different place in the state. The venue alone is worth the price of admission! There is a strong line-up of speakers for the conference along with a big dose of fun. As president of the Mississippi Writers Guild, it is my goal to get as many writers to join our organization as possible, and that means adding new chapters. The Gulf Coast Writers Association http: Writing will always be a solitary endeavor. But there are people out there who understand you and want to connect with you. A good way to connect is by joining The Mississippi Writers Guild and attending our annual conference in Meridian. For more information, please visit our website www.
