Division II Practice exam has 40 questions with a time limit of minutes and a passing grade above %. Sport: Select All Sports Football Men's Basketball Women's Basketball © The National Collegiate Athletic Association.

If you are going to be competing for a DIII institution, there is no reason to register with the NCAA, as they will not be reviewing your academic eligibility. If you are unsure what division level you will be competing at, start with an NCAA Profile page and you can transition to a Certification Account later. You meet all of the academic requirements and can receive an athletic scholarship your first year. Make sure to meet with your colleges compliance office. You do not meet the academic requirements and are not eligible to compete or practice at the college requesting your final status. You will not be eligible to receive an athletic scholarship. This is a status for only DII schools. Athletes with this status can receive an athletic scholarship and practice with the team, but you are not eligible to compete your first year in college. This means you will be eligible to receive an athletic scholarship and practice, but will not be allowed to compete your first year in school. Only athletes enrolling in a Division I school after August 1, , are eligible for this status. This is a special status you can only get if your colleges compliance office files for a waiver on your behalf. If you receive this waiver, you will be eligible to receive a scholarship, practice and play your first year in school. Usually, cases remain in process for no more than two business days. On rare occasions, the NCAA will make a secondary review of your status. This will only happen with the help your college compliance office. From time to time, your colleges compliance office will file for a waiver if they think you will meet one of the cases for academic waivers. This status means that waiver has been approved. If your compliance office has filed for a waiver and it is denied, you will receive this status. This likely means you will not be eligible for a scholarship or to compete. Waiver Partially Approved athletics aid only: If your compliance office has filed for a waiver on your behalf, it might be partially approved. This would mean you are eligible to receive an athletic scholarship but are not eligible to practice or play your first year in college. Waiver Partially Approved aid and practice: If your compliance office has filed for a waiver on your behalf, this status would mean you are eligible to receive an athletic scholarship and practice, but you will not be eligible to compete your first year in college.
