Each retake of an exam counts as one of the 6 exam attempts available with the subscription. The amount of exams available in the Certification Hub subscription are rapidly increasing. SAP offers two types of certifications in the Certification Hub: Associate Certification and Professional Certification. The Associate Certification covers the fundamental knowledge requirements for an SAP consultant to configure and implement SAP solutions based on the content covered in the Academy training. For some parts of the portfolio for example, SuccessFactors , Delta exams are part of the Associate Certification and ensure that a consultant is up to date on the most current release of the Cloud solution. This certification is in addition to an Associate certification and focuses on a specific role or integration component. Professional Certification is the highest level of Certification and requires technical and practical expertise. From the SAP Training and Certification Shop you can click the Browse courses button to browse through the catalog for a specific exam by solution: Or if you know the exact code of the exam you want to locate, you can use the search field: An online proctor will monitor you as you take the exam so you will need: Internet connection Laptop or desktop computer with a camera Private room in which to take the exam Government-issued ID to validate yourself to the online proctor This video explains what you should expect when taking an online proctored exam. Click the link below: You are eligible to take a Delta exam when you pass the pre-requisite Associate exam for a specific solution. Accept the invitation to opt-in to Credential Manager so you will be notified when a corresponding Delta exam is available. Enter CER in the search field. Select your time zone – this is very important so you can schedule an exam in your own time zone. Click this URL to download: Once you have downloaded and installed Questionmark Secure and conducted the system test, you can schedule your certification exams. A list of available exams will be displayed. Click the calendar icon to schedule an exam. You will see a display like this to schedule your exam. Your system is now ready to take your Certification in the Cloud exam. Before your assigned exam time, be sure that you have conducted the System Test successfully, have a reliable internet connection, have a laptop or desktop computer with a camera configured with Questionmark Secure, a private room scheduled to take the exam and your government-issued ID. Preparing for a Certification Exam Once you have located the Certification exam that you want to take and have your system configured to take an exam in the Certification in the Cloud, you should follow these steps to prepare for an SAP Certification exam: Consider taking related training 2. Review the exam syllabus or details 3. Review sample questions Consider taking related training Training courses can help you to pass an associate-level exam. As a subscriber to the SAP Learning Hub you have access to all relevant training materials and you can benefit from the Learning Rooms for your exam preparation. Learning Rooms are virtual learning spaces that guide you through all the training related to a specific certification exam. For each exam, you can find the related training courses on the exam detail page: If you are preparing for a professional-level exam, the indicated exam-related training classes serve a refresher or foundation courses, but they are not sufficient for exam preparation. To successfully prepare for a professional-level certification exam, you must have sufficient practical experience. Review the exam syllabus or details The topics covered in a Certification exam are listed on each exam detail page. Prepare for the exam based on the weighted value of each topic in the exam Topic Areas: These are actual questions asked in past exams so they are representative of the questions asked in the live exam. You can find these sample questions on each exam detail page: It will be great to hear from you about your experiences.

Chapter 4 : SAP FI Certification (Financial Accounting) - SAP Certification

SAP Simple Finance Course (ratings) Course Ratings are calculated from individual students' ratings and a variety of other signals, like age of rating and reliability, to ensure that they reflect course quality fairly and accurately.

Business transaction variant [Invoice Receipt MIRO with retention] for business transaction vendor invoice is delivered for document splitting method for that purpose. The standard splitting method is supplied by SAP and must be copied for example, Z Which of the following statements are true? There are more than one correct answers to this question. It is sufficient to activate the function post-capitalization of cash discount to asset before entering the payment. The system behavior in the classic General Ledger Accounting is as follows: In the reverse case also up to and including release 4. An account assignment of the Profit Center characteristic is not possible during payment. In the case of a unique account assignment in the asset invoice, the Business Area characteristic was transferred to the payment, at least to the bank, cash discount, and vendor line items. For non-singular account assignment for asset invoice, no characteristic account assignment is possible for business areas. You do not necessarily have to define splitting characteristics. It is not sufficient to activate the function before entering the payment. The activation of the real-time CO-FI integration affects changes to characteristics in which of the following transactions? Periodic allocations, such as assessment, distribution, and transfer posting b. Automated transfer postings to CO c. Settlement from orders or projects Answer: Previously, real-time integration in the opposite direction, from CO to FI, was not possible. The activation of the real-time CO-FI integration affects changes to characteristics in the following transactions: Periodic allocations, such as assessment, distribution, and transfer posting Manual transfer postings to CO Activity allocations Settlement from orders or projects CO reconciliation with FI has always required a conciliation ledger, which is maintained in Cost Element Accounting. You can navigate from the CO document to the FI reconciliation document generated in real time, but vice versa is not possible. If the CO activity does not change any FI characteristics, then no FI follow-on document is created when you are working with checkboxes. You can activate the trace in the real-time integration variant in Customizing. If the trace was active during a relevant CO posting, you can analyze the real-time integration data again at any time. In this case, it is always active for all users. You cannot then deactivate it in the application. Depending on the company, this can result in a large and perhaps an undesired number of log entries, which can be deleted regularly but are usually not required for evaluation. This is because if the trace is not activated in the real-time integration variant, you can still activate and deactivate it for a specific user at any time. If the CO activity does not change any FI characteristics for example: However, if the trace is activated, a log entry is created. You can navigate from the CO document to the FI reconciliation document generated in real time, and vice versa. This guarantees the traceability of accounting documents. This bidirectional navigation between documents is possible because real-time CO-FI integration creates an FI follow-on document for each activity and not only a totals posting at the end of the month. You can compare data of new General Ledger Accounting with CO, using which of the following transaction? Please choose the correct answer.
