

Friendships change with time, and that is a hard thing to accept sometimes. But, recently, I've been working to come to terms with how certain friendships have fallen apart and new ones have fallen together.

When Rainbow Dash appears and asks what she is doing, Applejack explains that she is practicing her "distance bucking". Fluttershy and Pinkie Pie are buckball naturals. However, Pinkie Pie displays a great talent for playing offense, and Fluttershy is good at blocking goal shots with her tail. As Snails walks by carrying a pair of water buckets, Pinkie Pie accidentally bucks several balls at him, but he effortlessly catches them in his buckets. Applejack bucks several more balls at Snails, and he catches those in a basket as well. In order to prepare the two for the upcoming game, Applejack and Rainbow put them through rigorous training. Rainbow Dash compels Fluttershy to run an elaborate obstacle course, and Applejack tosses softballs at Pinkie to kick into goal baskets. When Applejack piles onto Pinkie the pressure of not letting Ponyville down, Pinkie gets so overwhelmed that she cannot make successful goal shots anymore. Snails, on the other hand, remains perfectly calm and collected as he practices catching balls in the goal. On their way home, Pinkie and Fluttershy confide in each other about their worries of letting their friends down. However, they take relief in the fact that very few ponies in Ponyville have even heard of buckball. All fun and games until The pride of all Ponyville rides on their shoulders. Applejack and Rainbow come to realize that they focused so heavily on what made the game important to them that they ruined what made it fun for Fluttershy and Pinkie. However, because they have not had any practice themselves, they ask Fluttershy and Pinkie to play one practice game against them before the game against Appleloosa starts. On a buckball field near Appleloosa, Applejack and Rainbow have a practice game against Fluttershy, Pinkie, and Snails. With the pressure of letting Ponyville down no longer on their shoulders, Fluttershy and Pinkie are able to play much better. Applejack and Rainbow reveal that their "practice" was set up to help show how amazing Fluttershy and Pinkie are when they have fun, and apologize for putting the two under so much stress to win. When Fluttershy and Pinkie still worry about letting their friends down, Snails advises them to simply not think about it – an approach that they eagerly agree with. Epilogue "P" for Ponyville! When Fluttershy and Pinkie worry about winning, their friends remind them not to think about it and just have fun. In the final seconds of the game, Fluttershy and Pinkie manage to score a point and win the game. Braeburn commends the Ponyville team for playing such a good game and resolves to get serious for their rematch. Fluttershy and Pinkie tell him not to get too serious, however, as the secret to good buckball is just having fun. So I can count on ya to join the Ponyville buckball team? I am so there! All we need is a unicorn. But how do we keep from worrying about it? You could do what I do and not think about it. Everypony knows the secret to good buckball is just having fun!

Friends logo from the opening sequence of the series.. The American sitcom Friends was created by David Crane and Marta Kauffman, and produced by Bright/Kauffman/Crane Productions in association with Warner Bros. Television for NBC.

In addition to the different title, the plot itself was quite different from what we know as Friends. Instead, Joey and Monica were supposed to be love interests. By the time they shot it, the title had switched again to Six of One. When the show premiered on September 22, , they had finally landed on simply Friends. The cast could have been much different. For example, Kathy Griffin and Jane Lynch actually became friends after meeting while both were auditioning for the part of Phoebe. During the pilot season, he filmed the pilot for a show called LAX in addition to Friends. Before the show premiered, Courteney Cox was probably the most famous cast member. The role of Ross was written for David Schwimmer. And indeed, Schwimmer was the first person cast on the show. The opening credits were shot at Warner Bros. The cast went on a Vegas trip before the show aired. Lisa Kudrow hated playing guitar at first. Kudrow learned a couple of chords, then announced that she was done with the lessons. She decided that Phoebe would only know a handful of chords anyway. Monica was an early Mental Floss fan. It was filmed in front of a live audience—except for cliffhangers. Shooting an episode of Friends was a lengthy process, typically lasting five hours , with multiple takes per scene and 20 minutes between scenes to change sets. Still, the show was filmed in front of a live audience made up of fans. Many people, including Lisa Kudrow, thought that Chandler was gay. Nor will he be gay. They were the first TV cast to negotiate as a group. But allegedly, by the second season, each actor had a slightly different salary. This was big news. The apartment numbers switched during the series. They changed her apartment number to Kudrow got pregnant with her son, Julian Murray, in On the other hand, in the final season, Cox was pregnant with her daughter, Coco Arquette. This was not written into the show for an obvious reason: But in the later seasons, it was primarily a job for Paul Swain, who was the best boy on the electric crew. Fans became obsessed with the drawings. It was also the first episode after Courteney Cox married David Arquette. You can see the credits above. The episode is dedicated: It was widely publicized that Kudrow was afraid of the duck who made an appearance in season three. Before that, Ross had a pet monkey, Marcel, who was actually played by two monkeys: Marcel was written out of the show in season two because it became too time-consuming to shoot scenes with a monkey. Cox and Matthew Perry confronted Judd Nelson on a nearby soundstage about an on-set bet. Bruce Willis appeared on the show for free after losing a bet to Perry. Apparently Perry was quite the gambler. Perry believed that the film would be number one in the box office on its opening weekend, but Willis disagreed. In February , the film was number one. As a result of the bet, he had to donate his earnings for the guest stint to charity. In the season three episode, Phoebe makes a dollhouse out of cardboard. But the dollhouse ends up catching on fire, which meant six identical ones had to be created from scratch. And in true television deadline fashion, they were put together in three days. Ross is desperate to hear Ben talk again and spends the rest of the episode trying to get his son to talk. You can see them here [at 9: Matthew Perry struggled with addiction during production. In , Perry went to rehab for an addiction to prescription drugs and alcohol. He went again in I was painfully hung over. The cast had a huddle before every episode. Every week before filming commenced, the cast would get together for a moment to prepare for the show. This was the moment that David Schwimmer was dreading before the finale because he knew it would make him emotional. By the time the show ended, Aniston was arguably the most famous cast member thanks to films like The Good Girl and Bruce Almighty. With that fame came the rumors that she was almost responsible for the show ending prematurely. In a interview with Matt Lauer, Aniston admitted that she had hesitations. In , another Central Perk popped up in Liverpool. In , Cox went on the Late Show with David Letterman where he asked her about the possibility of a reunion. Kauffman and Crane have similar views about a reunion. But I think if we actually gave it to people, there would be such backlash. All images courtesy of Getty Images unless otherwise stated. Stories old and new Many of the McCabe camp buck stories are retold each season. Others have faded into memory. The year was , but McCabe recalls it as if it were So I stood against a tree and waited. He was shooting an old. He fired and the buck dropped. The buck never moved as the hunter climbed back into the stand, picked up his rifle and shot. There are too many wolves now. We never used to hear wolves, but now we do. Friends Ron and Todd Siciliano of Thunder Bay, Ontario, were there, too, as they have been for most of the past 26 seasons. Duluth native Tom Macleod, now of Cross Lake, also made the annual trek. Like Russ, Tom McCabe mostly sits in stands now. He and Russ are usually the last to leave the hunting shack after daylight breaks each morning. I shot a lot of deer walking, especially on drizzly, misty days that were quiet. But not any more. I mostly sit now. Alas, they were all does and fawns. After lunch of hot soup and sandwiches in the cabin most of the crew was preparing to head back out into the woods.

Littlefield wanted the group to share memorable periods of their lives with friends, who had become "new, surrogate family members. When Kauffman, Crane and Bright pitched Insomnia Cafe, Littlefield was impressed that they knew who their characters were. Crane argued that it was not a series for one generation, and wanted to produce a series that everyone would enjoy watching. The Pilot Friends The producers wanted Courteney Cox pictured to portray Rachel, and Jennifer Aniston as Monica; However, Cox and Aniston disagreed, so Cox was cast as Monica and Aniston as Rachel Once it became apparent that the series was a favored project at NBC, Littlefield reported that he was getting calls from every agent in town, wanting their client to be a part of the series. Those who received a callback read again in front of Crane, Kauffman and Bright. At the end of March, the number of potential actors had been reduced to three or four for each part, and were asked to read for Les Moonves, then-president of Warner Bros. Although Crane and Kauffman did not want LeBlanc for the role at the time, they were told by the network to cast him. The writers found that they had to adjust the characters they had written to suit the actors, and the discovery process of the characters occurred throughout the first season. The networks and studios are looking for young people coming in out of college. Crane and Kauffman were forced to comply and wrote a draft of an early episode that featured "Pat the Cop. Crane found the storyline to be terrible, and Kauffman joked, "You know the kids [sic] book, Pat the Bunny? We had Pat the Cop. Kauffman and Crane would not have signed on for an eleventh season, even if all the cast members had wanted to continue. Episode titles officially begin with "The One Studios in Burbank, California. Bright felt that filming outside the studio made episodes less funny, even when shooting on the lot outside, and that the live audience was an integral part of the series. The fifth-season finale, set in Las Vegas, was filmed at Warner Bros. Studios, although Bright met people who thought it was filmed on location. The Last One Friends The cast became very emotional while filming the final episode. They liked the ones that stayed true to the series, citing the finale of The Mary Tyler Moore Show as the gold standard. Crane, Kauffman, and Bright had difficulty writing the finale. They did not want to do "something high concept, or take the show out of the show. The main cast enjoyed the finale and were confident that the fans would react similarly: A one-hour retrospective of clips from previous episodes was shown before to the airing of the episode. Expressed opinions varied between a signalling of the end of the sitcom genre, a small decline in the large history of the genre, [64] and a general reduction of scripted television in favor of reality shows. Ultimately, the two-hour package did exactly what it was supposed to do. It wrapped up the story while reminding us why we liked the show and will miss it. The Unofficial Guide to Friends thought that the cast was "trying just a little too hard", in particular, Perry and Schwimmer.
