When Sargent played Harry in one of Elvis' final movies, Dick York was still Darren on television's Bewitched.

I am a die hard, card carrying Elvis fan and have been for as long as I can remember. There is so much about Elvis to love; his incredible singing voice, his generous spirit, his looks the most gorgeous man ever , his movies yes, his movies. They make me happy, so critics can just shush , his service in the army, his magical presence on stage, his transcendent charisma, andâ€¦I could go on and on. I listed 50 things I love about Elvis. I am an author and I mention Elvis in almost every story I write. I named my son Presley. I was fortunate to see Elvis in concert three times. I have been to Graceland five timesâ€¦ See? I have been blogging weekly for more than a year, but going forward, I will blog every 1st and 3rd Friday of the month. My life is insanely busy and I found myself missing weeks from time to time. Hopefully, even if you are not an Elvis fan, you appreciate something about him and will find my posts interesting. Feel free to comment. Thank you so much for stopping by!

Ted Jackson, a Navy frogman who recently got out of the service and is singing for a living. Someone else is after the treasure too, and although there are some dicey moments at the end, with a little help from his friends, Elvis gets the treasure and the girl. However, they discover the coins are not gold and are almost worthless. The movie was originally planned by Paramount as a vehicle for Jan and Dean, but after a train wreck that injured them and many of their crew, the project was scrapped and the script was rewritten for Elvis. This was the last movie Elvis and Hal Wallis did together. It would probably have to be him in the all-black shirt and pants doing yoga. I enjoyed this movie because it was different, since it took place in Europe and had sort of a crime caper feel to it. It was actually filmed in California. Other than when in the army, Elvis never visited Europe. Elvis plays Guy Lambert, an American singer who falls for a teenage heiress whose uncle, it turns out, is trying to kill her. They are chased and murder is attempted throughout the movie until the end, where the bad guys are caught and Elvis gets the girl. Elvis told her to watch the movie carefully when it came out. This was the first and only movie Annette Day his leading lady ever made. Elvis gave Annette a sports car as a gift, which she later gave to her brother. I loved any of the scenes where he fought. And there was a really sexy part where he threw a chair through a glass window. Sighâ€¦ Elvis was so sexy and I always love Shelley Fabares as his leading lady. And, Bill Bixby is in it, and I loved watching him in Elvis movies. He plays the perfect cad in Clambake. This was another movie where people said Elvis was fat. Elvis plays Scott Heyward, the rich son of a rich oil field magnate who is discouraged because he feels women only love him for his money. He meets Shelley Dianne , who is there to look for a rich man and finds him in the form of Bill Bixby. But, of course, she ends up falling for Elvis, he wins the boat race and all live Happily Ever After. One reason I love this movie so much is that there was true chemistry between Elvis and Shelley, and there were some emotional, angsty moments that I always enjoy. You could really see the romance develop, which was lacking in some of his films. The movie was set in Florida but filmed in California. In some shots, you can see the California mountains in the background. Lee Majors visited the set and filmed a cameo; he can be seen in the background of the restaurant scene, wearing a fake mustache. Just before he sings the above song. Shelley comes to see him before her big date with Jameson Bill Bixby and the scene is charged with sexual tension. Have you seen these movies? What did you think?

Lisa Marie and Elvis Presley Enterprises have continued that tradition with their involvement in various charities. In , The Elvis Charitable Foundation was formed. The EPCF created a scholarship fund for students majoring in the arts. Kildare , Straightaway , and Hennesey. He also joined the cast of The Joey Bishop Show in By , though, high production costs forced the series to come to an end after episodes. After the cancellation of Martian, Bixby starred in five movies: The series concerned a widowed father raising a young son, managing a major syndicated magazine, and at the same time trying to reenter the dating scene. This series was in the vein of other s and s sitcoms that dealt with widowerhood , such as The Andy Griffith Show and My Three Sons. Eddie was played by novice actor Brandon Cruz. The pair developed a close rapport that translated to an off-camera friendship as well. Bixby made his directorial debut on the sitcom in , directing eight episodes. ABC canceled the sitcom in at the end of season three. In , Cruz named his own son Lincoln Bixby Cruz. Brandon Cruz said of the show which developed a professional father-son relationship, compared to that of The Andy Griffith Show, "We dealt with issues that were talked about but were never brought up on television. Bill treated me as an equal. He made sure that we had a lot of time together, just so he could kinda crawl inside my head and see what actually made a kid tick. It really demeans the whole thing that Bill is not included. The series was well liked but lasted only one season. An accomplished amateur magician himself, he hosted several TV specials in the mids which featured other amateur magicians, and was a respected member of the Hollywood magic community, belonging to The Magic Castle , an exclusive club for magicians. Bixby became a popular game-show panelist, appearing mostly on Password and The Hollywood Squares. He was also a panelist on the revival of Masquerade Party hosted by Richard Dawson. He had also appeared with Dawson on Cop-Out. Bixby directed two episodes of The Oregon Trail. The Incredible Hulk[edit] Bixby starred in the role of Dr. Kenneth Johnson , the creator, director and writer, said that Bixby was his only choice to play the part. The pilot also starred Susan Sullivan as Dr. Elaina Marks, who tries to help the conflicted and widowed Dr. Banner overcome his "problem", and falls in love with him in the process. Banner while also bringing to the role an abundance of warmth, intelligence, humor, nobility, likability, and above all else, humanity. He also worked on the series with his friend, movie actress Mariette Hartley , who later starred with Bixby in his final series, Goodnight, Beantown in Hartley appears in the well-regarded double-length episode "Married", [20] and subsequently won an Emmy Award for her guest appearance. Waste: Dick Sargent, much as I enjoyed him as Samantha's husband on Bewitched, but there's just something about his passive nature that turns me off. Now we'd like to hear from www.nxgvision.com of these Elvis co-stars would you Want, Wed, and Waste?

I mean no one carries themselves like Elvis does – shoulders back, arms kinda out to the side, ass out and then the strut. Oh that Elvis strut! Then there is that beautiful face with those Elvis full lips and that beautiful voice. Yes, Elvis sings in every film. He may not play a singer, but somehow finds himself singing. I would be happy never to watch again, ever. I began my Elvis Movie Marathon at 8: It is not a bad movie, just not my thing. I have only watched it a few times in my life. Unlike his later movies, Elvis is not in every scene in this one and obviously did not get top billing. This film is about The Reno Brothers, which was the original title, who fall in love with the same girl played by Debra Paget. Elvis does not play a singer, but he does sing. Elvis is even more beautiful in color! This film is almost autobiographical with Elvis playing a singer Deke Rivers and the older generation thinking Deke was vulgar and even cancelled a show. Not to mention his female manager was much like Colonel Parker with all the publicity stunts. This was the first of two films Dolores Hart costarred with Elvis. This movie was again a little autobiographical, except for the going to jail part. Elvis played Vince Everett who was a singer then a movie star and became very famous very fast. Scotty, Bill and DJ again appeared on screen as his band. Elvis plays a singer on Bourbon Street in New Orleans they shot on location who gets mixed up with the mob. Most people claim this as their favorite Elvis film or say it was his best work, but these same people have never seen Wild in the Country, which to me was an even more dramatic role for Elvis and an even more dramatic story line. Some of the outdoor scenery shots were actually filmed in Germany. This is not my type of movie. I do not like Westerns, but this one is better than Stay Away Joe. Their family battles with the native Americans as well as the whites. One of the rare movies that is not a love story. Flaming Star is the first movie since Love Me Tender where Elvis does not play a singer, although he does sing a couple of songs. You will be pleasantly surprised. This movie never gets talked about or shown. Wild in the Country is a dramatic a role that Elvis ever played with an even more dramatic story line. James Dean would have been proud – this was totally a James Dean type role. Wild in the Country was based on the book The Lost Country. Elvis plays Glenn Tyler who almost kills his brother played by Red West in a fight. His punishment is to live with his uncle and cousin played by Tuesday Weld and see a psychiatrist played by Hope Lange who starred in Peyton Place. Told you it was quite the dramatic soap opera! Wild in the Country is really a great movie! Go watch it now! Besides Shelley Fabares, Joan is my favorite Elvis costar. Floyd from The Andy Griffith Show also costars. Elvis plays Chad a tour guide who frequently sings. One of the girls he is a tour guide is played by Darlene Tompkins, and I have met her and gotten her autograph – very nice lady. Blue Hawaii was actually filmed in Hawaii and is just a fun movie – not too cheesy – yet. Elvis plays Toby who is out of the army on disability – again playing a guy out of the army. Toby and his dad and the orphans run out of gas on a Florida Highway and homestead right there on the beach, and a mob run casino moves in next to them. Ann Helm and Joanna Moore costar. Elvis plays Walter who shocker! Walter ends up a boxer working for a promoter Willy played by Gig Young who is in debt to the mob from gambling. In fact, Girls Girls Girls, Kid Galahad and Blue Hawaii are all really tied for my fifth favorite – one edges out the other depending on my mood that day. His passion is boating, so he makes money as a singer to buy a boat. When I went to Seattle, I was reminded that Elvis had stood in line at that very same monorail and also went up in the Space Needle. Elvis plays a pilot, but sings randomly throughout the film. He and his friend played by Gary Lockwood who was also in Wild in the Country with Elvis and I got to see talk on the panel during Elvis Week need money to pay their debts. The uncle gets lost, so they end up taking care of the little girl. Kurt Russell has two scenes with Elvis as a boy who kicks Elvis in the shin – twice. Floyd from The Andy Griffith Show again costars. Elvis plays a singer and a lifeguard who tries to learn how to high dive to overcome his fear of heights from a high wire family accident from his childhood. Kissin Cousins is actually pretty dumb. Elvis again plays an army guy who goes to the Smokey Mountains in Tennessee to take land away from his cousins " and Elvis also plays his blonde cousin. It is the same Dad from Follow That Dream. I think, like the Colonel, there was too much Ann Margret in it. Not only did she sing with Elvis on more than one song, she had a SOLO remember when she was making those sandwiches? I like the soundtrack a lot. Elvis plays a race car driver who sings in a contest to win money to get his engine for his car for the big race. I met Mary Ann Mobley and got her autograph and told her my story and she imitated Elvis saying Deena like he did to her in the movie. She was so sweet! I also met Chris Noel and got her autograph. Shelley Fabares is definitely my favorite Elvis costar. Elvis plays Rusty Wells, who is a singer paid by his Chicago boss to go to Ft. Lauderdale on Spring Break to keep an eye on his daughter Valerie played by Shelley Fabares and not let any guys near her and instead of course Rusty falls in love with Valerie after first pursuing Deena. Girl Happy is one soundtrack I listen to over and over again. I know it so well it brings me comfort. I watch it repeatedly as I have the dvd and have it downloaded on my phone and kindle fire. It is loosely based on the song. Elvis plays a riverboat singer Johnny who is a gambler. This movie gets panned a lot, but I actually like it and find it refreshing. Oh and there is a nice little cameo by Jerry Schilling in the casino. Elvis plays a pilot who flies tourists around Hawaii. He is in business with his friend, but he keeps getting in trouble. I talked with Suzanna at length at the Days Inn about 10 years ago or so. She signed her book for me and actually gave me her contact information as I was looking for a job so I could move to Memphis. She was a really nice lady. Diane McBain also costars. I have her book, and she has a really interesting story. Elvis plays a singer with a traveling band and a race car drive. Three women are after him and want to marry him. I just think a movie about twins should be called Double Trouble " plus the poster for the movie has twin Elvises on it. Anyway in Double Trouble, Elvis plays a singer with two girls, a killer and jewel thief chasing him in England. Annette Day and Yvonne Romain costar. I would be very happy never to watch this movie again. Yes there is no accounting for taste. I had to take this DVD out of the wrapper after 20 years. I probably like it mostly because Shelley Fabares costars in it. Shelley is the only actress to costar in three movies with Elvis. Bill Bixby also costars. Elvis plays a rich oil trust fund baby race boat driver who switches places with a poor ski instructor. Elvis plays a Native American guy in the rodeo. Burgess Meredith and Joan Blondell costar. Will never ever watch this again " just terrible. Nancy Sinatra costars with Elvis in Speedway and does have a song of her won, which bugs me.

McCormick played the beautiful eldest daughter, Marcia , who had five siblings. However, when The Bradys aired in as a revival of the original series, McCormick had just given birth to a child and was unavailable to return as Marcia, so Leah Ayres filled the role instead. After eating a Snickers, Marcia appears as McCormick once again. McCormick later claimed she failed to get a role as a prostitute or heroin dealer for the movie Midnight Express because she continued to be identified with her Brady Bunch role. She also performed in several musical stage productions during the s and s, portraying such characters as Wendy Darling in Peter Pan and Betty Rizzo in Grease. The Barbara Mandrell Story. This led to a spin-off reality series called Outsiders Inn , in which she opened a bed and breakfast in Newport, Tennessee. Get Me Out of Here! She was partnered with professional dancer Artem Chigvintsev. The following year, McCormick recorded an album with her Brady Bunch co-star Christopher Knight , a pop extended play titled Chris Knight and Maureen McCormick, which carried both duets and solo tracks. It debuted at number four on The New York Times bestseller list, where it stayed for three weeks. The Today Show reportedly aired an interview with McCormick about the book rather than switch to a story about the recession. Following the cancellation of The Brady Bunch, McCormick spent years addicted to cocaine and quaaludes , which harmed her career. McCormick later claimed that she sometimes traded sex for drugs, and also had two abortions during her early twenties. She flubbed an audition with Steven Spielberg for a part in Raiders of the Lost Ark , arriving for the audition under the influence of cocaine and having not slept for three days. She lost her reputation for reliability as an actress in Hollywood, and one producer threatened that she would never work as an actress again. She also dealt with bouts of depression and bulimia. They fell in love upon meeting in a church. The family lives in Westlake Village , northwest of Los Angeles. After getting married, McCormick went through a series of interventions , stints in rehab, and experimental therapies. She says that treatment with psychologist Eugene Landy set her back. She began to get sober after marrying, but she still suffered from depression and paranoia. She once threatened to jump from a balcony in front of her husband.
