If you are looking for a serious, magic-positive book on sex magic, DO NOT BUY THIS BOOK! Indeed, after skimming the book, and reading a few sections, I immediately returned it. It is written by a Christian who is not only critical of magic in any form, but specifically states that his readers should NOT try any of the spells, etc. that he.

We want to be happier, healthier, wealthier, and so on. Magic lets you attract what you desire in life and protect yourself from pitfalls. Although you can do this with any type of magic, sex magic is an especially effective way to accomplish your objectives. What Is Sex Magic? Sex magic is a means to an end, a way to mobilize the amazing creative power of sexual energy to generate a desired result. Basically, you do sex magic for the same reasons you would do any other type of magic: Your goal might be to promote healing or attract money or achieve spiritual enlightenment. When you add sexual energy, you increase the intensity of a magic spell. Uniting Mind and Body Sexual energy is life energy. Its nature is to create. In the most rudimentary sense, the union of male and female spawns a physical child. However, every sexual act creates a "child" on the spiritual plane, regardless of whether a flesh-and-blood baby is produced on the material plane. During sex, you plant "seeds" with your thoughts into the fertile "womb" of the cosmic matrix. Your thoughts and emotions are the hammer and chisel with which you carve your reality from the raw material of the universe: Twenty-five hundred years ago, the Buddha said, "With our thoughts, we make the world. To successfully perform magic of any kind you need a focused mind" and sex really focuses your attention. And when you do sex magic you kick things up a notch. You throw another log on the fire and fan the flames. Sex magic propels you into a mind-body-spirit experience. Your mind creates an intention, your body provides the fuel, and Spirit guides the result. Can Anyone Do Sex Magic? If you already follow a magical path or belief system, great—you can incorporate sex magic into it. Anyone, regardless of ideology, can do sex magic. Sexual energy is neutral. It has no conscience or inherent moral quality attached to it, just as fire is neither good nor bad. Do you need a partner of the opposite gender to do sex magic? Not in most cases. Sex magic relies on blending male and female energies. Everyone, regardless of gender, has both masculine and feminine energies. Same-sex couples can do sex magic as successfully as opposite-sex couples. You can even call upon a deity to participate with you, but that subject requires more discussion than we have room for in this article see my book Sex Magic for Beginners for details. Creating a Telos Before engaging in sex, decide on a telos, an objective you intend to bring about. Choose only one objective at a time, so you can direct your undivided attention toward it. This is not the place to multi-task! If you are working with a partner or a group of people discuss your telos in advance, and make sure everybody agrees on the result you intend to generate. If each of you has a different agenda, the outcome you produce will likely be garbled. Compose your telos in the form of an affirmation. You may want to create a picture to represent your telos. Images can generate results even more effectively than words. If you have an artistic flair, consider designing a painting or collage that depicts your intention. Tarot cards are good visual tools to use in sex magic. The rich colors, imagery, and other symbolism on tarot cards speak directly to your subconscious. Choose a card that symbolizes your telos and look at it while you engage in sex to remind you of your objective. Runes can work, too. In sex magic, images offer yet another advantage. If that were all you had to do, no one would be poor or sick or unhappy. Sex magic is both an art and a skill. Like any art or skill, it requires learning certain techniques, then practicing those techniques to build up your magical muscles. The first step is to slow down. Many of us tend to rush toward the finish line, rather than pacing ourselves during sex. But drawing out the experience and allowing your sexual energy to build gradually enhances your magical power. Luxuriate in your sensuality. Let your excitement slowly increase until you feel almost ready to come. Do some deep breathing. Shift from genital stimulation to stroking other parts of the body: When the immediacy has subsided, gradually elevate the level of excitation until, once again, you almost reach the point of no return. Continue in the manner for as long as you like, slowly and steadily building intensity. During this period of high arousal, keep your telos in mind. The more intense your feelings, the faster you can attract what you desire, and in this near-orgasmic state your magnetic power is tremendous. As you raise energy and cycle it through your body, mentally attach your intention to that energy. Then let your orgasm wash through you. As it does, it sweeps your intention before it, like a wave pushing a boat along on its crest. After orgasm, relax and stop thinking about your telos. Enjoy the calm after the tempest. Allow the universe to do its part now. Just Do It Now that you know the basics, I encourage you to try sex magic. Sexual energy is natural, readily accessible, and incredibly powerful. Sex magic has been with us always, and I suspect it always will be. During the last few decades the practice has gained popularity in the West, perhaps in reaction to the demystification and exploitation of sex in modern society. Through sex magic we become reacquainted with the sacredness and primal power of sex. Suddenly, we find ourselves up close and personal with the "real deal," and it truly does rock our world. You can have and be anything you choose. At this very moment, you possess the ability to make your life whatever you want it to be—not through working hard and struggling, but through expressing the joy and pleasure that are your birthright. This thoroughly researched, profusely illustrated book explains how people in all societies through the ages have used sex magic to improve their love lives and their money luck. Sex magic, when properly invoked, holds a surprisingly strong promise that the practitioner's wishes will be granted.

He has traveled internationally with a trip to Egypt in as one of the defining moments in his life as it was there that he discovered the God Set and became his practitioner. She obtained international notoriety at the age of three as she was baptized by her father into Satanism and has been a Nikolas Schreck is an American Born writer and left-handed philosopher and spiritualist. Demons of the Flesh: The Complete Guide to Left-handed Sex Magic was given to me by a dear friend after I expressed my frustration with the Satanic community, who claimed all magic was within the realm of Satan and essentially left-handed in nature. Though when I challenged these professed Satanists to explain what they meant, no one would accept the challenge. I found this book to be well composed and articulate. It had a great deal of historical information on personalities like Anton LaVey and Alcester Crowley. I found the history of the Church of Scientology as an off-shoot from sex magic sects particularly disturbing. The information presented on the Hindu Goddess Kali was fascinating and I may decide to gather more information on her. As I understand, with the aide of this book, sex magic is the practice of channeling the energy gathered during love making, using it in a ritualistic forum to effect magical change. While I would have to agree that that particular energy would probably be quite potent, I personally have no desire to attempt any of the applications presented. Personally I did not see the advantage of the left-handed path when physical ruin and insanity seem to be the side effects. They did present one success story: Jesus of Nazareth, which disturbed me more than their accounting of Scientology. As one who was raised Christian the idea that all the beliefs given to me as a child might actually be the exact opposite of the truth had me reeling for my breath. However once I got over the shock, I had a new understanding of the reasons why an individual may pursue a left-handed spiritual path. The left-handed path gives its practitioners a way to break out of that oppression, if only for one night during a ritual of magic. With that under consideration, one cannot deny it is a viable spiritual option for some. My test for a great film or book is whether it stays with me and I remember it. This book is highly rated and I must concur that the Schrecks are probably the best authorities on Satanism, the left-handed path and Sex Magic. As my friend knew it would, this book answered many of my questions concerning Satanism. It is exceptionally informative and most certainly memorable. It rocked me to my core, challenged all of my beliefs, and hurt my heart. However I cannot deny the true knowledge gained. I know my beliefs are sound and right for me. My Goddesses will heal my heart and I will be made stronger for the experience.

A harlot or low woman is useless for all such lofty and holy purposes, and just so is a bad, impure, passion-driven apology for a man. This cantrip delays any orgasm by 1 round per level of the caster. Back to list of Cantrip spells This cantrip enables the wizard to read the aura of a creature. The caster must remain stationary and concentrate on the subject for two full rounds. A creature is allowed a saving throw vs. Certain magical devices negate this cantrip. The reverse, undetectable sexual alignment, conceals the sexual preference of a creature for 24 hours - even from a know sexual preference cantrip. None This cantrip covers an organic surface with a slippery layer of a greasy nature. The person serves willingly and well, but at the expiration of the cantrip duration it disappears, returning to its own place. The mount does not come with any gear or clothes. This cantrip was created by conjurer apprentices to practice their art. It is only a cantrip because the conjured being, only serves one purpose a fun purpose, but not a practical purpose. Pillow Talk Alteration Level: None When this cantrip is cast, the wizard imbues the chosen pillow with an enchanted mouth. The mouthed pillow will only speak about sexual topics. The wizard has the option at cast time to decide the level of vargarity. The level varies from perverse smut to intellectual discussions on sexual techniques. Slap All Schools Level: The victim of this spell feels a forceful slap across the cheek. Creatures must save vs. Sterility All Schools Level: Clerics have high level spells to accomplish this, but only mages have such a simplistic form of birth control. The reverse of this cantrip is Sexual Disgust. Special This cantrip causes the victim to feel the sensation of being "tweaked" or "goosed" as if by an unseen forefinger and thumb. The portion of the body being tweaked must be seen by the caster and be uncovered by armor. The caster must make a tweaking motion with his hand in order to affect the spell. One object Saving Throw: None By means of this cantrip, the caster can magically cause the object of the magic - thread, string, cord, rope, button - to untie or unbutton itself. The reverse ties or buttons the object. A stronger spell in the works is Power Word: This spell must be cast 1 round prior to the kissing spell. Any kissing spell may be used in conjunction with this spell. Note that this allows the caster to blow a kiss to those that may not desire one. Thus, the problems with physical contact during combat and such have been eliminated. Back to list of Level 1 spells This spell affects any single person it is cast upon. The term person includes any bipedal human, demihuman, or humanoid of man-size or smaller, such as dwarves, elves, gnolls, halflings, kobolds, and others. The person receives a saving throw vs. If the spell recipient fails his saving throw, his sexual preference is changed to the opposite. Thus a man who liked women would now prefer other men. A witch must have a Charisma score of at least 11 to cast this spell. It affects victims the same as a charm person spell. If the spell is not dispelled by a leader, each man within the area of effect must attempt a save vs. A successful save negates the effect of the spell for that man only. If there are more men within range than a maximum number who can be affected, the spell is directed against the lower-level men first. They are listed here instead of throughout the guide for convenience. The spells and the difference in duration and area of effect are as followed: V, S, M Duration: Permanent or until dispelled Casting time: One person Saving Throw: That the victim has been seduced magically or otherwise will be readily apparent to those who make a successful wisdom check. When the item is given back to the victim and recognized, the spell is complete. The victim is allowed a special saving throw on a d20 based on intelligence. The spell is effective until dispelled. While under the enchantment, the victim will take as gospel everything the spellcaster says, and will strive to protect and defend the spellcaster at all times. If the spell is broken by another magic or by the will of the enchanter, however, the victim will remember everything and know that magic was involved. The gestures of the wizard, along with his erotic incantations causes the person to go into an enjoyable, screaming, orgasmatic, erotic fit. The term person includes any bipedal human, demihuman, or humanoid of giant-size or smaller, such as dwarves, elves, gnolls, halflings, kobolds, and others. One creature Saving Throw: This spell enables the spell caster to render one creature, himself or otherwise, impotent incapable of sexual intercourse. The material component is a bucket of cold water. The incantation consists of a specific personality such as "Baba Yaga" who might be unappealing to the creature. The saving throw is actually a check on the disgust the personality generates in the creature. If the creature finds the person repulsive, he fails the save. During the period of impotence, the creature will attack at -2 and make morale and saving throws at Wisdom, Constitution, and Charisma scores will be lowered by points each for the duration of the spell. Also, during this time the creature will feel downright miserable. After the kiss, the victim goes into a deep comatose slumber. Slapping or wounding awakens the affected creature but normal noise does not. Awakening requires one entire round. The reverse of this spell is Kiss Of Awakening which will awaken a person who is magically asleep. Those successfully saving vs. One male mammal Saving Throw: None When this spell is cast, the recipient gains a condition of sexual excitement and productive activity. Furthermore, two points of intelligence and one point of wisdom is lost; and one point of charisma is gained. These bonuses end when the spell ends. This spell causes the affected person to cast aside all weapons, armor, and clothing, in an attempt to seduce the witch, leaving the victim virtually defenseless against attacks from the witch or any other character or creature. Immediately after the spell wears off or is dispelled, the victim can retrieve one of his dropped weapons on a roll of 11 or more on 1d If the roll is 16 or more, the victim may also retrieve a shield or helmet. Rolls may be repeated each round until successful, as long as the victim stays within grasping range of the weapon or other object to be recovered. Saving throws are a straight throw versus spells, modified by Wisdom only no magical protection device apply. Furthermore, the victim saves at -1 for every two points of Charisma of the caster above 12, rounded up i. This saving throw gives characters or creatures with a decent Wisdom a better chance of saving throw vs. The saving throw for this spell is computed by adding the seduction spell level 1 through 8 to the charisma score of the witch and subtracting the wisdom score of the intended victim. The resulting number is used as a modifier plus or minus to a roll of 1d The adjusted die roll must be equal to or greater than a certain number, depending on the class of the intended victim, for the save to be successful. Fighters need a 13 to save, rogues need a 12, mages need a 9, and clerics need a 8. The spells and the difference in area of effect are as followed: The affected people will become jealous of each other to the extent that they will ignore the mage or any other source of danger present and quarrel amongst themselves. If the fight is not to the death, then the combatants will come out of the spell when hit. Back to list of Level 2 spells This kiss causes the victim to lose 2d4 points of Strength for 24 hours. After receiving such a kiss, the victim will be completely helpless for 1d10 turns. Looks, smell, smoothness, and even taste of the outer skin are all effected. The material component of this spell is a cosmetic and perfume kit magically prepared by a thaumaturger. None A voyeur is a person who derives sexual gratification from observing the sex organs especially in secret. Of course the gratification part must be achieved solely by the mage. The material component of the spell is a small piece of cloth and a small piece of glass. This is actually a Charm Person spell with no saving throw.
