Guests will enter through redesigned entrances, from both slopeside and the village side, that improve the access to the building and create a more welcoming sense of arrival. Additionally the atrium on the slope side of the building was removed and replaced with a new roof and windows looking up at the slopes. Other windows throughout the building also have been replaced. As part of the agreement, the Bierstube received an exterior remodel including a new roof, windows, doors and siding. Additionally the Bierstube will have a new deck partially covered by a gable roof. Bus passengers located at the previous bus stop next to the Bierstube. The remodel includes enlarging the kitchen and food court area, new tile work in the kitchen and new carpeting. The new configuration will provide our guests with easier access to food and beverage offerings as well as a fresh new look and feel. The Summit House remodel added a mezzanine level with 1, square feet and approximately seats, and new windows providing northwestern views. Additionally the building received an entire exterior remodel with new windows, siding, stonework, trim and lighting. Restrooms were added to the main floor as well as a new, expanded entry. This two-story, square foot building is more than four times the size of the old cabin which served as the dispatch center and warm up room for patrol. The new building enables patrollers to treat minor injuries on-site instead of transporting to the clinic in the Base Area. The building also includes a kitchen to accommodate patrollers during their daily shifts, which allows them to stay at the summit where they can be dispatched to most incidents. To complete the summit upgrade, the two lift maintenance and operation buildings have been given a new exterior to match the Summit House and Patrol HQ. Flower Point is so named for the wildflower-covered alpine meadow on its peak and offers a spectacular view of the North Fork area in Glacier National Park. In tribute to this national treasure, most runs are named after locales in the national park: An additional run, Ridge Run, now runs along the northeast boundary of the resort. The lift also provides access to a sixth new run, One Grand Parade, on the south side of Flower Point. Base Lodge Expansion Project In an additional seats were added with the 1,square-foot addition to the Base Lodge. In a half-million dollar renovation included an expansion of the food court area improving the efficiency and flow, and providing new food stations to create more options for guests. Additionally, the Coffee Bar was relocated adjacent to the Base Lodge Patio, and a new seating area provides indoor seating for customers as well as overflow seating for the Base Lodge Cafe. Whitefish Bike Park Expansion “ In the summer of Whitefish Mountain Resort completed the Bike Park expansion project adding five new trails, more than doubling the downhill freeride experience. The Whitefish Bike Park offers mountain bikers nearly 30 miles of trails from expert downhill to intermediate and beginner cross-country terrain.

Trails of the Sawtooth and Cecil D. Includes 3 new wilderness areas: In updating Trails of the Sawtooth and Cecil D. Andrus Boulder-White Clouds Wildernesses Margaret added some difficult hikes and ones in remote areas, three of them backpacking trips, although she is now To the east of the Sawtooths above wrinkled, wooded foothills the Cecil D. Andrus Boulder-White Clouds Wilderness mountains soar in summits of vanilla ice cream. All three ranges are within the Sawtooth National Recreation Area. This book is a comprehensive guide to that area. In the Cecil D. Excerpt from Trails of the Sawtooth and Cecil D. Andrus Boulder-White Clouds Wilderness click on the link: The book gives the basic facts about each area and how it started, and it includes little stories of some of the people who skied at each one. There are stories of stolen snow plows, an exploding stove, and a young woman who on a very cold night froze to the seat of a porta-pottie. While researching the microfilms of Idaho newspapers, we found many hidden and forgotten stories of ski area startups in the weekly papers. It was almost always a community deal: A rancher, farmer, or mechanic promises to donate an engine for the rope tow. No rope for the tow? No land for a tow? We can arrange for Forest Service land, or lease land from private owners, have it logged, and pay the lease with the proceeds. One ski area made a movie of cars and buses stuck in the mud and showed it around town to motivate public officials to pave the road. The jump opened in and had an in-run in the United States, with the jumpers landing in Canada. Most of the ski areas had the investment of several local businessmen who are not as well known as those two, but were vital in developing small ski areas such as Cottonwood Butte and Rotarun. A member Lions Club built a ski area from scratch, including buying a used Pomalift from a bigger ski area. Then they hauled an old schoolhouse 20 miles on dollies to the base of the lift for a lodge. Another area converted an old chicken coop. No ski lift or likely way to get one? Excerpt from Ski the Great Potato: Idaho Ski Areas, Past and Present click on the link: They have meticulously done their research and present the plain and accurate facts of Eastern Idaho trail and peak hiking. Here and there, trail descriptions are supplemented with tidbits of natural and social history. Her longtime and passionate love affair with the Idaho outdoors has given her a sensitivity for natural history a topic to which she has devoted two previous books. Eastern Idaho is a landscape of variety. It includes black lava, grotesque granite towers, multicolored cliffs and unearthly turquoise water. The book guides you to trips in 19 mountain ranges and among the lava flows of the Snake River Plain. Whether you are an Idaho visitor or a resident, you will find fun trails for day hiking, backpacking, mountain biking, horseback riding, and peak bagging. Excerpt from Trails of the Eastern Idaho click on the link: It is also appropriate for people who need suggestions of where they might visit. In its mountains, aquamarine lakes contrast with gray and black peaks streaked with white, copper, and rose. Except for the Hells Canyon Wilderness, the hikes are in non-wilderness areas. Trails under other management include the Boise Greenbelt and the Excerpt from Trails of Western Idaho click on the link: From any high point a gigantic relief map of ridges extends to distant blue crags. The crags and ridges hide cobalt blue lakes and bubbling hot springs. In most sections, the footprints you see will be those of elk and deer, not humans. It was updated and expanded in Both popular areas like the Bighorn Crags near Challis and remote areas like the Big Creek drainage near Yellow Pine are included in the book. Several of the roads to trailheads, such as the road to Sleeping Deer and the Nez Perce Trail Road are adventures in themselves. They include history and natural history of the areas, how to avoid damaging the environment, and information on safety. Each trail write-up also describes the beautiful scenery that what will be seen along the trip.
