Ms. Laub's class has been learning about the five Native American tribes of Utah for the last two weeks. As part of this, the students were required to choose one of their homes and use their creative imagination to recreate one of them with a partner.

Stegner, who sought to capture places in his writing that spanned the entire American West, died 25 years ago this spring. Author and historian Wallace Stegner, who sought to capture places in his writing that spanned the entire American West, died 25 years ago this spring. For Utah readers of the Pulitzer Prize winner, some details from seven decades of creative writing, essays and interviews on a region so vast might seem familiar, even personal. The Deseret News remembers Wallace Stegner Stegner experienced both happiness and despair in his 14 years in Utah and , according to the U. The Deseret News reported in how Stegner called Utah "home" in his essay "At Home in the Fields of the Lord" despite spending most of his adult life away: At worst, I had thought myself an Ishmael; at best, a half stranger in the city where I had lived the longest, a Gentile in New Jerusalem. But a dozen years of absence from Zion, broken only by two or three short revisittings, have taught me different. I am as rich in a hometown as anyone. In fact, his novel " Recapitulation " sees the protagonist " a young diplomat who comes back to Utah after years " " thinly disguised " as Stegner. The author "selected" Salt Lake City as his hometown in part due to the "comfortable, old-clothes" feel, the Deseret News noted. An East High graduate, Stegner studied literature and creative writing at the U. He also wrote his first short story, finished his first novel and "fell in love for the first time and was rudely jilted for the first time" in the city, he wrote in "The Sound of Mountain Water. Author Wallace Stegner, who died 25 years ago this spring, attended East High. Author and historian Wallace Stegner, who died 25 years ago this spring, lived in the city for 14 years. Stegner opined in the same book that few cities transition "so naturally and easily into fine free country" as Salt Lake City. Early Utahns Stegner wove the history of Mormon pioneers who settled Utah into larger points on the West. They were literally villages on the march, villages of sobriety, solidarity and discipline unheard of anywhere else on the western trails. The folklore of the early West was "comically at odds" with what it took to build thriving communities in the frontier, Stegner wrote in "The Sound of Mountain Water. Stegner died 25 years ago this spring. Stegner respected one subset of early Mormons in particular. Their women were incredible," Stegner wrote in the book "The Gathering of Zion: The Story of the Mormon Trail. Literature in Utah, the West A Deseret News interview with Stegner yielded numerous observations and predictions on the state of literature in Utah and the West at large. But what would LDS fiction look like when it emerged? Stegner continued that "family quarrels" and "discontents" generally make strong fiction and those would be the themes, rather than epic writing. According to The Wilderness Society, Stegner joined the conservation movement while fighting the construction of a dam on the Green River in the s; a letter he penned in on the "importance of federal protection of wild places" was used to introduce the Wilderness Act. And he rarely abandoned the topic as an author. Then in the construction of the Glen Canyon Dam created Lake Powell " raising the water level several hundred feet to flood Glen Canyon. Buffalo have been on the island since

We will be offering summer school from July 9th to August 9th this year. Summer school will be available to all registered or returning students. The hours of summer school will be 9 am to 12pm Monday through Thursday. Drop-off will also be the same as pick up. New Carpool Starts today. In order to ensure that our students are as safe as possible, we are adding some security features to the building. Please help make our kids as safe as possible by donating! Sea paciente y amable durante el viaje compartido, especialmente durante las primeras 2 semanas del nuevo sistema. Espero aliviar estas frustraciones con nuestro nuevo viaje compartido. Pase por el carpool para que podamos mantener a todos a salvo. Hemos trabajado mucho para elaborar un plan que no incluya a los estudiantes que cruzan la calle. Nuestro nuevo sistema de viaje compartido comienza el 10 de Abril. I really do believe it will be safer and faster. Please be patient and kind during carpool especially during the first 2 weeks of the new system. Remind your students to watch for you and enter into the car quickly so that we can keep things moving faster. Thank you for your cooperation with the carpool. I drive through the carpool each week and I know how it can cause feelings of great frustration. Also, we want to let everyone know that it is not safe to park across the street and walk to the school to pick up your students. Please go through the carpool so that we can keep everyone safe. We have worked very hard to come up with a plan that does not include students crossing the street. Today or tomorrow we will be sending home the new carpool colors red or blue with the students. You will need to display this color in the front windshield of your car where it can clearly be seen. You can put them in the windshield visor as long as they are visible from the outside of the car. Please put these in your car windshield as soon as you get them. Our new carpool system starts on April 10th. Here is the map. It was also sent home with your students today. The plan will begin on April 10th. It will be posted soon.
