

Chapter 1 : Open Positions - Phoebe Careers | Phoebe Ministries Retirement Community

Cindi Myers' What Phoebe Wants is a book from my early bookworm life, back when every book I bought, I bought because I liked the cover. Lol. Yes, I bought this book eight years ago, and I was not able to finish it.

She is a musician at their typical meeting place, Central Perk , where she plays guitar and sings self-written songs. During the first season, she has a myriad of boyfriends, including Tony, [1] a physicist named David, played by Hank Azaria , [2] and a psychologist named Roger, played by Fisher Stevens. Ursula is also portrayed by Kudrow. It is revealed that the woman Phoebe believed was her mother, Lily Buffay, committed suicide when Phoebe was about 14, by means of carbon monoxide poisoning. During the second season, it is revealed that Phoebe was married to a Canadian ice dancer , Duncan Sullivan, who was posing as gay, in order to allow him to get a green card, for six years. Phoebe is also temporarily replaced as the primary singer for Central Perk by a professional singer named Stephanie Schiffer, played by singer Chrissie Hynde. In addition to being a vegetarian and an avid tree hugger , she also displays a remarkable lack of experience with the "darker sides" of life. It is also revealed that she was never told the truth about Santa Claus. Phoebe is shown to have a very strained relationship with her sister Ursula, who she almost never gets in touch with. Despite multiple efforts to get her crass twin sister who is one minute older than her to care about family affairs or other things that concern her, Phoebe nearly always goes home empty-handed and none the wiser. Very in tune with her emotions and those of others, Phoebe sometimes serves as a rock to her friends. Much to the dismay of her friends especially Ross , Phoebe dabbles in metaphysics and other superstitions throughout the series. She repeatedly makes reference to her underworld connections and crimes she committed while living on the streets. David Hank Azaria , known as "The scientist guy", has a romance with Phoebe in the first season of the series, but breaks her heart when he decides to leave for Minsk on a three-year research trip. Mike had been introduced to Phoebe in the ninth season of the show, when Joey forgot he was supposed to find Phoebe a double date and decided to shout for a random guy called "Mike" in the coffee shop instead. After a whirlwind romance, Phoebe and Mike eventually break up and she briefly reunites with David in Barbados. Mike beats David to the punch, however, and proposes to Phoebe before the latter gets a chance. Although she initially rejects both, she definitively breaks up with David and eventually marries Mike. The song is about a cat who is shunned by society because of its foul stench as a result of flatulence "What are they feeding you? However Phoebe sympathizes with it because she can relate to being an outcast. After finding out that the voice used in the video belongs to another woman, however, she turns the idea down because she feels bad for the woman who will not get any recognition for her voice because she does not have the "right look. Daily , wants them to get back together. Phoebe teaches the song to Chrissie Hynde , who releases it in a album. In "The One with the Mugging", it is implied that Phoebe is older than Ross, seeing as she was fourteen when he was This episode made her possibly the oldest in the group. In "The One with the Jellyfish" Season 4 , Phoebe states that she is twenty-nine, placing her birth in approximately According to "The One with Frank Jr. Phoebe also tries on at least one occasion to manipulate the other friends into celebrating her birthday again within months of a previous birthday party. The first reference to Regina Phalange is during season 5 following Ross saying "Rachel" instead of "Emily" at his wedding. When the friends go to Vegas , Phoebe introduces herself to the blackjack dealer as Regina Phalange. The passengers are eventually convinced to return to the plane. When a woman skeptically asks an airport employee if "the phalange" was fixed, he replies, "Yes, the phalange is fixed! As a matter of fact, we put a whole lot of extra phalanges onboard, just in case!

Holden tiptoes to D. He finds Phoebe sleeping peacefully, and he remarks that children, unlike adults, always look peaceful when they are asleep. As he watches Phoebe sleep, he reads through her schoolbooks. He enjoys reading the notes to friends, the curious questions, and the random imaginative jottings she has scribbled on the pages. He finally wakes Phoebe, and she is overjoyed to see him. Bursting with energy, she talks feverishly about one thing after another: But after her enthusiastic flurry of conversation, she realizes that Holden is home two days early and must have been kicked out of school. Holden tries to justify his behavior, but she refuses to listen and covers her head with a pillow. Holden leaves the room to get some cigarettes. He tries to explain why he fails his classes and tells her all the things he hates about school. She responds by accusing him of hating everything. He tries to refute her claim, and she challenges him to name one thing he likes. He becomes preoccupied, thinking about the nuns he met at breakfast. He also thinks about James Castle, a boy he knew at Elkton Hills School who jumped out of a window to his death while being tormented by other boys. He finally tells her that he likes Allie, and she reminds him angrily that Allie is dead. Antolini, an English teacher he had at Elkton Hills. Antolini is shocked that Holden has been kicked out of another school and invites Holden to stay the night at his house. Holden mentions to us that Mr. After a few numbers, they hear the front door openâ€”their parents have come home from their dinner party. Holden tries to fan away his lingering cigarette smoke and jumps in the closet. His mother comes in to tuck Phoebe in, and he hides until she leaves. He then tells Phoebe goodbye, letting her know of his plan to leave New York and move out west alone. On the way out, he gives Phoebe his red hunting hat.
