Israel Crossed the Arnon Gorge Moses said: Israel, pack up your possessions, take down your tents, and cross the Arnon River gorge. So attack and take it! They will tremble with fear when anyone mentions you, and they will be terrified when you show up. We will walk straight through, without turning off the road. We need to reach the Jordan River and cross it, because the Lord our God is giving us the land on the west side. The Edomites and Moabites[ n ] have already let us cross their land. Sinai the Israelites set out for the Promised Land, the land of Canaan. Along the way, time and again, they murmured in dissatisfaction and resentment against their journey. The Lord punished them for this, but on account of the prayers of Moses, pardoned them. Even his own sister, Miriam, and Aaron reproached Moses for having married an Ethiopian and thus abusing his dignity as an envoy of God. Moses was the meekest of all the people and patiently bore their reproaches. The Lord punished Miriam with leprosy. Aaron, seeing that his sister had leprosy, said to Moses, "Because we have acted foolishly and sinned, do not deliver us into harm. Twelve men were chosen, one from each tribe. Among those chosen were Caleb, from the tribe of Judah, and Joshua, from the tribe of Ephraim. When the observers had traversed the whole country and surveyed it, they returned in forty days. They brought with them a branch of a grapevine they had cut off there with a bunch of grapes. The branch was so big that two men had to carry it on a pole. They also brought pomegranates and figs. All of them praised the fruitful earth. But ten of the twelve men who had been sent, all except Caleb and Joshua, stirred up the people, saying, "The nation that dwells upon it is powerful. They have very great and strong-walled towns. We will not go, for we shall not by any means be able to stand up against the nation, for it is much stronger than us. There we saw such giants before whom we were like grasshoppers. Our wives and our children shall be plunder for the enemy. Now then, it is better to return to Egypt. But the Israelites conspired to stone Moses, Aaron, Joshua and Caleb, appoint a new leader and turn back. Then the glory of the Lord in the form of a cloud appeared in the tabernacle in front of all the people, and the Lord said unto Moses, "How long does this people provoke Me, and how long do they refuse to believe Me for all the signs which I have wrought among them? Your carcasses shall fall in this wilderness and all that murmured against Me shall not enter into the land for which I stretched out My hand to establish you upon it, except for Caleb and Joshua, the son of Nun. Tomorrow turn and get you into the wilderness by way of the Red Sea. And your little ones, whom ye said would become a prey shall inherit the land which you rejected. According to the number of the days during which you spied the land, forty days, you shall bear your sins for every day a year, unto forty years, that ye may know what it is to be abandoned by Me. They said, "Behold, we that are here will go up to the place of which the Lord has spoken. We repent of our sin. Why should we be punished for forty years? You shall not prosper. They were defeated and fled. So for forty years they wandered in the deserts of Sinai. Even during this time, however, the merciful Lord did not abandon them but visited them with many miracles. Soon after being condemned to wander for forty years, a new revolt arose among the Israelites. Certain of them, whose leader was Korah, an elder of one of the tribes, were unhappy that the priesthood was a privilege only of the house of Aaron. Therefore the Lord punished them: The next day everyone saw that the rod of Aaron had blossomed, shooting buds, flowering, and bearing almonds. Everyone then recognized Aaron as the high priest. On another occasion, because of their murmuring against God, the Israelites were punished by a plague of poisonous snakes which bit the people and caused many to die. The Israelites repented and asked Moses to intercede for them before God. The Lord commanded Moses to make a bronze serpent and to place it on a pole. Whoever had been bitten, and with faith looked on the bronze serpent, remained alive. This bronze serpent served as a prefiguration of Christ the Saviour. Christ was crucified on the Cross for all our sins. Now we, looking upon Him with faith, are healed of our sins and saved from eternal death. During the forty-year wandering, all the adult Israelites who had come out of Egypt died, except for Joshua and Caleb. A new generation grew up which was destined to enter the Promised Land. Moses died in the last year of their wandering. Before his death, he appointed Joshua, son of Nun, as leader to replace him.

But, nothing at all has been unearthed in the Sinai Peninsula supporting the biblical account of the Exodus. Various explanations for this range from the idea that it is naturally difficult to find any archeological evidence in a desert of sand to the explanation that the traditional site is the wrong one. First of all, no archaeological find has ever contradicted the Bible. Archaeology has only confirmed what the Bible says. As has been the case with so many other things in the Bible, as archaeology progresses, they will most certainly uncover evidence in the future. The Bible has yet to be proven wrong by archaeology. What we need is evidence, and it is fair to say that there should be some evidence for the wanderings of two million people for forty years in a desert. Third, it may be that the traditional site of Mt. The map to the right shows the traditionally accepted route in black and the currently accepted location of Mt. The problem is that there has been absolutely no archaeological evidence unearthed at that site to verify the Exodus. This would have placed Mt. Sinai in Arabia, which is now Saudi Arabia, instead of the traditionally accepted Sinai peninsula. They uncovered evidence of an alternate site where the real Mt. Williams have produced a video and book available on that site where they claim to have found evidence in Saudi Arabia to support that Mt. Sinai is located within its borders. Now, I must admit that this has not been verified by any "official" archaeologists; but the video, which I have seen, does raise some interesting possibilities. Cornuke and Williams claim to have simply let the Bible guide them as they attempted to locate the actual route of the Jews of the Exodus. Through trial and error over several weeks, they followed what they believed was the route as is laid out by the Bible; and they found the items described in Exodus including, springs, a split rock, an altar, an underwater land bridge at the end of the Sinai Peninsula where the people of Israel could have crossed, and much more. The present location of Mt. Sinai, according to the locals in their account, is known as Jabal Al Laws and is traditionally known by them as the Mount of Moses. The Saudis have the area fenced off with warning signs in Arabic and English telling people not to enter. If this is so, why would the Saudis not want anyone to know about the place? It might be because if Mt. Sinai is located in Muslim territory, then one of the most holy places of the Jewish and Christian religions, it could pose serious political problems. I must admit that this is speculative at present, and it has not been verified. But the video was compelling. Whether or not this is a valid option is yet to be determined, and it is supportive of the idea that the traditional location of the Exodus route might indeed be incorrect as Gal.

"The Years of Wandering" from author N.T. is an inspiring and heartfelt novel. The book revolves around three professionals from different countries who go to work in Asia and around the way they adapt to new surroundings and cultures.

Why was Israel cursed with forty years of wilderness wandering? Nearly 3,000 years ago, the Lord delivered His people from Egyptian bondage as described in Exodus, chapters 1-14. Prior to entry, however, they became convinced they could not oust the current inhabitants of the land, even though God told them they could. He cursed them with forty years of wilderness wandering until the unbelieving generation died off, never stepping foot in the Promised Land. Initially, they flourished under the leadership of Joseph, number two in charge of the country after Pharaoh. Eventually, God heard their cries Exodus 2: After enduring the last of the ten plagues—the death of the firstborn males—Pharaoh finally agreed to release the Israelites. Upon their arrival at Kadesh Barnea, which bordered the Promised Land of Canaan, they sent out twelve spies to survey the land and its people Numbers 13. They returned after forty days of exploration. Ten of the spies had a bad report: Only Joshua and Caleb dissented Numbers 14. Believing the report of the ten doubters, the people lost heart and rebelled. Or in this desert! However, Moses once again interceded for his people and turned away the wrath of God Numbers 14. Rather, they would suffer by wandering in the wilderness for forty years, one year for each of the forty days they explored the land Numbers 14. Furthermore, God would give them what they asked for: Additionally, the ten men who had given the bad report were struck down and died of a plague before the Lord Numbers 14. God had promised them victory. The land He commanded them to go in and take was already theirs; they simply had to trust and obey, but this they did not do. God will never lead us where His grace cannot provide for us or His power cannot protect us. Indeed, the Israelites had seen the powerful hand of God at work during the plagues and miracles of the Exodus. Yet, like many people, they walked by sight and not by faith, and their unbelief displeased God. This truth has never changed.

Chapter 7 : Years of wandering - background orchestral music | Di Evantile

Posts about 40 years of wandering written by Mark. Much of this is not documented with time stamps but it averages out between thirteen and sixteen months per campsite.

The Lord forgave His people as Moses asked Him too. However, the punishment for disobedience is that none of them will see the Promised Land except Caleb. God tells His people to turn around. The Lord tells Moses except Caleb and Joshua all will die who grumbled against Himâ€”He will grant their wish to die in the desert. The children will inherit the land but only after wandering for 40 yearsâ€”one year for each day the Israelites explored the land. God struck down and killed the men who were responsible for the bad report. The Israelites repented and went to fight anyways. But this was disobeying God as well for He has ordered them to turn back. They were defeated as Moses and the ark remained encamped. In this desert your bodies will fallâ€”every one of you twenty years old or more who was counted in the census and who has grumbled against me. People today have a victim mentality and an entitlement mentality. God struck down the men who reported the false report and thus were responsible for leading the others into sin. In Numbers , we see the whole of the Bible condensed into two chapters. Here we see the power of prayer as God says He has forgiven the people because Moses asked. God listens and He responds. God recognized Caleb and rewarded him in front of all. The people on the other hand have more work to do. I wonder what they were thinking. No excuse will work hereâ€”the people rejected the land and now they must pay the consequences. Even when they decided to obey, their hearts were not in itâ€”they did not trust the Lord. They only felt sorry for what they did. And they paid the price. They will wander only 38 years since they have already been in the desert for 2 years.
